LACLEDE GAS UP 50 POINTS; NEW TOP 305

More Than Score of Stocks Reach New Highs in Spectacular Bullish Demonstration.

MEMBER LOANS RISE $402,573,019 IN MONTH

Speculative Interest Veers Back to Utilities After Switching to Rails in Early Afternoon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—One of the most spectacular bullish demonstrations since the May break took place in today's stock market in some of the high-priced stocks, more than a score of which were whirled upward 5 to 50 points to new high records. Meanwhile, the general line showed some irregularity, with final quotations showing a preponderance of net gains.

Week-end profit-taking, particularly on the part of traders who plan to be out of touch with the market tomorrow, slowed up the advance in the late trading. U. S. Steel and a sprinkling of other popular issues losing a good part of their early gains. Speculative interest which shifted from the public utilities to the rails in the early afternoon veered back to the utilities as the market closed.

The New York Stock Exchange announced today that member borrowings against security collateral increased $402,573,019 during July to a new high record total of $7,473,794,294 on July 31. This is an increase of more than $2,600,000 since July 31, 1928.

Laclede Gas Up 50 Points.

Laclede Gas was whirled upward 50 points to a new peak at 305. General Electric, Pacific Telephone, American Telephone and People's Gas closed 10 to 12 points higher, all touching new high prices. Detroit Edison, Consolidated Gas Philadelphia Co., Brooklyn Union Gas and North American closed 5 to 10 points higher. International Telephone ran up nearly 6 points to a new top at 115% for the present issue.

Laclede Gas had not sold for over a week. The previous high this year was 260 and low for same period 231.

Call money held steady at 10 per cent all day, although it was thought for a time that the rate would work lower.

Time Money Steady.

Time money and commercial paper rates held steady with business light. While many traders expected a decrease in Federal Reserve banks' loans because of the heavy liquidation a week ago, the increase of $62,000,000 to a new high record apparently caused little concern, due to the rather general feeling that the loan total will be much higher before any major reaction develops.

Weekly mercantile reviews indicated little change in the general public situation, while there was publication of another series of earnings statements of the first half year. A further improvement was noted in the demand for copper.

The brisk demand for the rails followed the earnings and traffic statements now being published, and a speculative belief that they were behind the market.

Commodity markets were reactionary. Wheat and corn dropped about 34 cents a bushel on reports of better crop weather. Cotton fell back $1.50 to nearly $2.50 a bale with more favorable forecasts as a major selling factor.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with the leading European currencies showing little change in rates. Sterling Cables ruled around $4.85%.

Reserve Condition Showing.

Though the reserve condition statements showed the bill and Government security portfolios somewhat larger in the week, the changes were not considered large enough to foreshadow any early deficit entry of the banks into the bill market in a large way.

On the contrary, the consensus of opinion was that the $8,000,000 increase in bill holdings of the local bank resulted largely from purchases on contract agreement. For the second consecutive week, the condition statements revealed that more credit was being released to agriculture and industry in the interior, while the total outstanding in this district was contracting.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 39, 40 and 41.

FORGET WEATHER BY KEEPING BUSY, SAYS U. S. DOCTOR

Cumming Declares Best Things to Eat in Summer Are Those One Wants.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The first item in a hot weather program suggested by Surgeon-General Cumming of the public health service is "keep busy." A "cheerful frame of mind," he explained, is the most important safeguard against heat suffering. He said the easiest way to attain it was to think of things other than the weather.

"Glancing at turf records," he added, "one sees that some of the best records have been made in hot weather. I believe that humans also are capable of as much work, mental or physical, in hot as in cool weather."

Of summer diet, he remarked that "the normal palate is a dependable guide; the best things to eat are the things one wants—fruits and vegetables."

He suggested drinking at least six to eight glasses of water daily, and praised the modern woman's lightness of dress.

50 SPEAKEASIES DEMOLISHED IN WETTEST TOWN IN OHIO

Federal Dry Agents Make Raids and Dump Whisky and Beer, While Steel Workers Jeer.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 2.—Liquor raids were made by Federal prohibition agents in the "steet town" of Campbell last night and early today. Fifty enforcement officers demolished 50 speakeasies, arrested the proprietors and dumped whisky and beer into gutters.

All the raids were based on purchases made by under-cover agents, raiders said. Among other prisoners was a man booked as John Vansuch, former safety director of Campbell. The agents said several former policemen were among the prisoners.

Campbell, a suburb of Youngstown, described by agents as "the wettest spot in Ohio," is populated principally by workers in the steel mills. Hundreds of these collected in the streets during the raids and at one place more than 500 gathered about the agents jeering and boozing.

Camermen who waited in the rain for the arrival of the plane from St. Louis but as the rain fell heavier the number dwindled. As the fliers circled the field and landed, about 1500 persons remained to welcome the men who stayed in the air over St. Louis for seventeen and a half days.

Camermen who waited in the rain for the plane, nearly two hours late, were disappointed when Jackson and O'Brien refused to pose for pictures. The pilots clambered out of the St. Louis Robin and left immediately for a downtown hotel, deaf to the pleas of the photographers.

From the Municipal Airport the fliers were driven to a luncheon under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The afternoon schedule called for a refueling demonstration on the lake front just off the downtown business district, but the weather was such that it was probable the demonstration would be postponed until early tomorrow morning.

Tonight the visitors will attend the opening of the new Curtiss Flying Service offices and speak on the radio.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—After a flight of 700 miles, an Indian boy with an injured leg lies in an Ottawa hospital today.

For his safe transfer from Fort George in the north land to medical care, Samuel Cook, 15 years old, is indebted to Lieut. F. C. Higgins of the Royal Canadian air force, pilot of the Canadian Government plane which made a tour of Indian tribes in Northern Ontario to obtain their approval to a treaty ceding their territory to the crown.

When Lieut. Higgins brought his plane to a stop at Rockfield air-drome last night, he had completed 1200 miles of air travel within a day. He had flown 500 miles from Remi Lake, Ont., to Fort George to pick up the Indian lad and 700 miles from Fort George to Ottawa. Sgt. S. A. Greene, mechanic, was a third passenger.

The boy's leg was badly injured as the result of a bullet wound on June 18.

DEMONSTRATION OF REFUELING PLANNED

Accompanied by Wassall and Chaffee—Trip Intended to Boost Commercial Aviation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Drenched by a steady downpour, the St. Louis Robin, with Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, holders of the new world's endurance record, arrived at the Municipal Airport here today at 11:45 a. m. (standard time) on their first leg of their exhibition tour of 13 cities.

They covered the 276 miles from St. Louis in two hours and 40 minutes and were followed 20 minutes later by the refueling ship and its crew and by two other Robins from St. Louis.

The fliers explained that they were late, because they "took their time" on the trip, experiencing difficulty.

A crowd had waited for hours for the arrival of the plane from St. Louis but as the rain fell heavier the number dwindled.

CELL DOORS AND WINDOWS BROKEN

No Guns Among Prisoners
—One Report Lays Outbreak to Kind of Food and Absence of Ice Water.

By the Associated Press.
LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 2.—Official announcement was made here today that the mutiny in which one convict was killed and three injured was definitely at an end and that the situation in the Federal prison here was quiet.

Denial was made that a fresh outbreak occurred among prisoners in the mess hall this morning. Reports had been circulated outside the prison that a large group of convicts refused to eat breakfast and hurled tableware about the dining room.

Shouts and other noise could be heard outside the prison but there was no uproar such as occurred yesterday when the inmates of the narcotic cell block rioted in the mess hall and later fought guards, smashed windows and damaged property before they were driven into their cells.

Mike Martinez, a Mexican, who had served one year of a 30-year term, was shot to death in yesterday's riot. Another prisoner's leg was so badly mangled by gunshot that it was amputated at the prison hospital. Two others are in the hospital suffering from severe gunshot wounds.

Prison Quiet Last Night.

The last of the rioting prisoners was in his cell and the prison was quiet last night. Guards with machine guns mounted on the prison walls prevented any escapes during the disturbance.

There were numerous reports as to the cause of the outbreak but prison authorities declined to confirm or deny any of them. One report was that the riot, which broke out in the mess hall at noon, was a protest against the food and the absence of ice in drinking water. Another was that the prisoners, who had been permitted to read newspaper accounts of riots in Eastern prisons, acted in response to the suggestion of this news. A third was that heat-crated addicts were responsible for the outbreak. The temperature was 100.3 degrees here yesterday.

The hurling of food and porcelain dishes marked the beginning of the riot shortly after 2:00 of the 3758 prisoners entered the mess hall. Disregarding a plea by Capt. P. J. Kearny, in command of the hall, to return to their cells, they armed themselves with knives and forks and clubs obtained by breaking furniture and flocked into the jail yard.

Armed guards arrived several minutes later and with a command to the convicts to return to their cells, fired a volley from their riot guns. Several prisoners fell and the others went to their cells.

Doors and Windows Broken.

Inside the cell houses, the riot began in earnest. The convicts using the knives and forks, and crow-bars and other tools obtained in the jail yard, tampered with padlocks on the cell bars and broke down cell doors and shattered windows.

The riot extended in the afternoon to all sections of the prison but the entire prison was not in a state of mutiny at once.

It was reported that the last disturbance was in the middle of the mess hall at the evening meal, the prisoners "milling about." The leaders were quickly taken away and all the convicts were sent to their cells. None of the prisoners had firearms during the disturbances and none of the prison guards was injured.

Warden Thomas B. White refused to call on soldiers at Fort Leavenworth nearby for assistance although guards of the United States Disciplinary Barracks at the fort were held in readiness for any emergency.

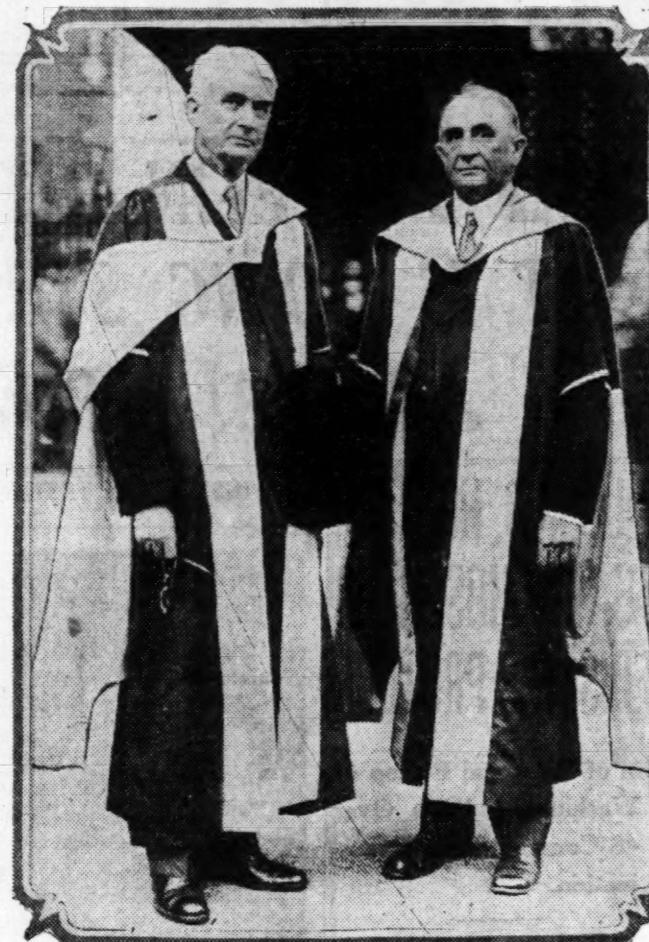

Riot Caused by Crowding and Lack of Work, Warden Reports.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Department of Justice announced today that a report from Warden Thomas B. White said the riot in the overcrowded prison was due to the over-crowded condition of the prison and lack of work for the prisoners.

The Warden said the trouble started at the noon hour yesterday, when the convicts objected to their meal of rice. This demonstration, he advised, was quieted, some of the convicts being sent to their cells and others to the shoe factory, where another demonstration took place and these convicts were also taken to the cells.

A third demonstration broke out, he continued, at early mess in the evening, when the inmates threw utensils about the place and were otherwise disorderly. White said he tried to stop it, finally getting most of the men to their cells, where they broke off parts of the cells, throwing the fixtures and bricks at the guards.

It was then, his report said, that riot guns were brought into play to protect the guards. Mike Martinez was killed and Harold T. McLaughlin, John J. Jones and Fred Connors were wounded, none of them fatally.

White's report was submitted to the Department of Justice by Sanford Bates, Superintendent of Federal Prisons, who in a report of his own praised White for his handling of the situation.

The Leavenworth prison was designed to accommodate at the most not over 2000 prisoners and the population today is 3700," the superintendent said. "It is impossible under the present law to provide sufficient work to take up the attention of the majority of the inmates. This situation, combined with the intense heat and the knowledge which was undoubtedly borne into some of these men, of the prison riots in other parts of the country, is the only cause that can be assigned for this demonstration."

Austin H. McCormick, assistant Superintendent of Federal Prisons, was ordered today to go to Leavenworth and investigate conditions. GRAF ZEPPELIN

White, off to a slow start, would take nearer 90 hours than 80 to reach its goal.

Messages from aboard the Zeppelin indicated all was well. In passing Cape De Gata the dirigible sent a message saying, "All well on board, only a little too warm. The temperature is 33 degrees centigrade (about 91 degrees Fahrenheit)."

Stowaway Found.
Another message from Herbert S. Siebel correspondent of the Associated Press aboard the Zeppelin, confirmed that a stowaway was aboard. The message said:

"A stowaway was found just after the Zeppelin left the hangar. He jumped from the hangar down into the Zep. If he had jumped between the girders, he would have endangered the ship. Dr. Eckener said the stowaway would be sent back on the next steamer and be the guest of the owners of the German airship."

Preparations for the expected arrival of the Graf Zeppelin Sunday caused little change in the routine at the station. The ground crew of 300 which ordinarily lands the Los Angeles was augmented by more than 100 marines and sailors from the Philadelphia navy yard to haul down the much larger Graf Zeppelin. Landing arrangements were placed in the hands of Lieutenant-Commander V. A. Clarke.

was to equalize the tariff on charcoal in liquid preparations.

The rate on dates was raised from 1 cent a pound to 2 cents, on lemons from 2 cents a pound to 2½ cents, on onions from 2 cents a pound to 2½ cents. No decisions were reached as to the duties on tomatoes.

The duty on peanuts in the shell was left at 4½ cents a pound as provided by the House but the rate on shelled peanuts was reduced from 7 cents to 6 cents.

The duty on casein, manufactured from the skimmed milk and used in the manufacture of gloss paper, was increased from 2½ cents a pound to 3½ cents. This was regarded as a victory for the dairy interests whose plea for an increase was ignored by the House. Users of gloss paper had protested against the increase.

Another radio message from the Zeppelin told something of life aboard the ship. "We had champagne as soon as we were ready," the message said. "Which resulted in a late breakfast. The two women passengers became slightly nervous when we encountered strong headwinds shortly before luncheon and were buffeted for an hour in the Rhone Valley. Our progress was retarded.

$3,100,000 READY FOR NEW ST. LOUIS POSTOFFICE ANNEX

Washington Officials Agree to Consider City's Objection to Closing Seventeenth Street.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A delegation composed of Walter B. Wolsenburger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; Representative John J. Cochran and former Representative Cleveland A. Newton today obtained assurances from the Treasury and Post office committee on buildings that the city's objection to the closing of Seventeenth street for the new postoffice addition would be given serious consideration by the committee.

Members of the delegation were agreeably surprised when the Federal officials stated that $3,100,000 had already been allocated for the proposed addition.

The delegation presented arguments to the block directly north of the proposed site, pointing out that the new railway express buildings had already caused considerable traffic congestion in the area under consideration. To close Seventeenth street, the St. Louisans said, would add to present traffic complications.

Site Question Reopened.

The St. Louisans were impressed with the favorable attitude of the committee, which was composed of three assistant Postmaster Generals; James A. Wetmore, Treasury Department supervising architect, and L. C. Martin, of the Treasury Department building office. At the conclusion of the hearing, the Federal officials stated that the St. Louisans had completely reopened the site question, but added that consideration would not be limited to the new site at Eighteenth and Market.

Cochran pointed out that if the Eighteenth and Market street site were chosen the Government could erect a building 800 feet long, the roof of which later might be used for the landing of mail planes.

"The aviation industry," said Cochran, "is now presenting improvements which will enable airplanes to stop in a short space. The time is coming when airplanes will be landing on buildings, and we may as well be prepared."

If the proposed site on Seventeenth street is selected, a wider building proposed would be too short for airplane landings.

Acting Mayor Walter Neun had intended to attend the hearing but was called to New York. In his absence, Welsenburger filed with the committee a letter giving assurances that if the block on Eighteenth street were selected the city would close Walnut street and give the land to the Federal Government.

The Eighteenth street site is selected, the aeronauts will be raised to $3,500,000, as the Eighteenth street block is valued at $400,000 more than the tentatively selected site. The Federal officials were pleased to learn that the Eighteenth street site was in the hands of one owner. This, they indicated, would simplify its acquisition.

The officials stated that they would inform their representative in St. Louis to investigate other sites. He has already been informed that condemnation proceedings have been ordered for the new Federal Building site on Twelfth boulevard and Market street. They also promised the delegation that selection of the site for the postoffice addition would be expedited as much as possible.

"In my opinion, stowaways who commit such reprehensible acts should receive punishment. Many lives were momentarily in the hands of fate when that youngster landed upon the giant ship."

Airplane Escorted Dirigible.

Three airplanes escorted us to the German border. The clouds rose when we were crossing Switzerland, where two more planes joined the ship, which then assumed the aspect of a giant ocean liner being towed into port with all the little, busy bugs hovering about.

As we were approaching the French border, rain fell, clearing the atmosphere.

We had a few bumps in the "air pockets" when we were crossing the high hills to the north of the Saone Valley, but conditions were not in the least disagreeable, rather, we were expectant of adventure.

Many of the passengers slept. Others, including Mme. Gourevitch, enjoyed the scenery of the flight immensely, lining the observation platforms and gazing into the beautiful, quaint continental pastoral world below.

We flew to a height of 3000 feet as we passed over Besancon at approximately 4:30 o'clock in the morning. We were averaging 65 kilometers (40 miles) an hour and once we swept onward at a terrific pace, getting up to 110 kilometers (70 miles) an hour.

Head Winds Cease.

As we came to the wide plains of the Saone Valley, the head winds which had retarded our progress dropped to a slight breeze, and we descended to 300 meters above sea level.

Dr. Eckener then went into his cabin, leaving Capt. Ernest Lehmann in charge. The latter considered crossing the Bay of Biscay as a quicker route, but the weather reports received when over Lyons showed head winds in the Bordeaux region, and Capt. Lehmann consulted Dr. Eckener, who advised the southerly crossing.

BOYLE HEIR'S WIFE DENIES SHE SWORE OR HURLED BOOKS

Mrs. Howard, in Deposition, Says Husband Tickled Her and Twisted Arm Until She Cried.

SHE DECLARED HE FEIGNED ILLNESS

Asserts Mother-in-Law, Whom She Is Suing for $100,000, Told Her "I Wasn't in Her Class."

The differing points of view of two spheres of life are illustrated in the depositions in the $100,000 alienation suit of Mrs. Grace V. Howard, 551 North and South road, University City, against Miss Sidney Boyle, 5035 Lindell drive, mother by adoption of the plaintiff's young husband, Lloyd Boyle Howard.

Mrs. Howard gave her deposition yesterday before Special Commissioner C. B. Williams. She is 21 years old, one of five children who came here from Louisville, Ky., with their mother. Employed as a waitress in the Melbourne Hotel Chocolate Shop, she eloped with Howard, two years her senior, April 22, 1925, when both were minors, and they were married by a Justice of the Peace. Howard had been adopted as a child by Miss Boyle, and reared by her in a quiet atmosphere of plenty.

Miss Boyle, whose home is one of the mansions facing Forest Park, inherited $600,000 from her father, Judge Wilbur Boyle. Her family has been known here for many years. Calm and smiling, Miss Boyle sat in her office yesterday to hear her daughter-in-law's testimony against her. Miss Boyle wore a black straw hat over her gray hair, and a lavender dress. She gently waved a fancy palm fan, behind which she sometimes whispered with her counsel.

Calls Miss Boyle "Tante."

In the witness chair Mrs. Howard showed nervousness and an eagerness to answer the lawyers' questions. She told how she had been educated at the Louisville Masonic Home. Once she spoke of Miss Boyle as "tante" (the German for aunt), a term she picked up from her husband, but she made it clear that there was no love lost between them as far as she was concerned.

Denies Husband Was Sick.

"Was he sick then?" (Miss Boyle was testifying that she found him suffering from tuberculosis then.) "No. He used to suck blood from his teeth and say it was from his lungs. He couldn't fool me and I don't know why he tried. He showed me the place on his gums where he used to suck blood.

"I was never dissatisfied with Lloyd," his wife continued. "Only displeased because he would tickle me and twist my arm; it would make me so nervous I'd cry. He wouldn't stop till he saw me crying hard; I guess he didn't have anything else to do, she didn't give him anything to do except drive the auto."

"The day I left him (June 17) he tickled me coming down in the electric elevator to breakfast. He'd walk like Charlie Chaplin and mock everything I did. Finally I got the baby fed (the Howard have an 18-month-old son). I said if he didn't stop teasing I'd wait and eat when he finished. Then he twisted my arm, pushed me on the floor, kicked me and slapped my head. I started screaming. I told Miss Boyle when she came what happened and she said she didn't believe a word of it. The baby was crying so Lloyd got it in his arms."

Denies She Threw Book.

Mrs. Howard denied Miss Boyle's charge that she then threw a telephone book at her husband. She was asked if the provocation on this occasion was not Howard's rather than Miss Boyle's, and replied: "Yes, but Miss Boyle interfered, took his side and wouldn't believe me. I didn't harm Lloyd. Miss Boyle followed me every minute until I left. I asked her not to and she said she had to take the things in her home. I asked Lloyd, 'Please tell Tante not to watch me so. I'll take my things in the elevator and she took them in two or three times. She said she didn't want me to use her elevator till I was ready to leave, but my sister was waiting there in an automobile. She said, 'That's my grip; I don't want to leave MY house. I didn't throw it at her, but I handed it to her.'

"As I left I kissed Lloyd good-bye, but he didn't kiss me. I got along wonderfully with Lloyd when we were left alone. We had one night when we could go out, but she would say, 'Who'll take care of the baby?' and I'd feel so bad I couldn't enjoy the show. We were never allowed to go together in the afternoon on account of the baby, but he slept all afternoon. I knew when I left I was never coming back to her home again. I think if Lloyd had had a chance to beg me I would have stayed, because I love him. I wanted him to apologize.

"I don't swear and never have sworn. (Miss Boyle had said Grace swore a great deal.) I've heard a good deal of swearing from her son. He swears when he gets angry and that she would 'scream loud' if I should have married her son. I've seen him get pretty angry. I when in a temper."

Gets New Trial on Dry Charge

MRS. THELMA HOLLAND.

EXPECTANT MOTHER TO GET NEW TRIAL ON AUG. 9

Woman Charged With Possessing Still Is Released on Bail After Changing Plea.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 2.—Trial of liquor charges against Mrs. Thelma Holland, stepmother of six children and expecting the birth of her own child within three months, has been set for Aug. 9 by Superior Judge Marshall McComb.

Mrs. Holland pleaded not guilty to possession of a still after Judge Emmett H. Wilson had set aside a sentence on her original plea of guilty. The voided sentence called for a maximum term of one to five years in San Quentin penitentiary and a fine of $1000. The woman was released on $1000 bail.

"He told me he was willing to give that up. I wanted to be happy with Lloyd," she said.

"You wanted him to work and support you?"

"I wanted to work together and support each other. He worked as an usher at the Missouri Theater for two and a half months after we were married."

Denies Husband Was Sick.

"Was he sick then?" (Miss Boyle was testifying that she found him suffering from tuberculosis then.)

"No. He used to suck blood from his teeth and say it was from his lungs. He couldn't fool me and I don't know why he tried. He showed me the place on his gums where he used to suck blood.

"I was never dissatisfied with Lloyd," his wife continued. "Only displeased because he would tickle me and twist my arm; it would make me so nervous I'd cry. He wouldn't stop till he saw me crying hard; I guess he didn't have anything else to do, she didn't give him anything to do except drive the auto."

Denies She Threw Book.

Mrs. Howard denied Miss Boyle's charge that she then threw a telephone book at her husband. She was asked if the provocation on this occasion was not Howard's rather than Miss Boyle's, and replied: "Yes, but Miss Boyle interfered, took his side and wouldn't believe me. I didn't harm Lloyd. Miss Boyle followed me every minute until I left. I asked her not to and she said she had to take the things in her home. I asked Lloyd, 'Please tell Tante not to watch me so. I'll take my things in the elevator and she took them in two or three times. She said she didn't want me to use her elevator till I was ready to leave, but my sister was waiting there in an automobile. She said, 'That's my grip; I don't want to leave MY house. I didn't throw it at her, but I handed it to her.'

"As I left I kissed Lloyd good-bye, but he didn't kiss me. I got along wonderfully with Lloyd when we were left alone. AT SNOOK TRIAL WITNESS TELLS OF PAIR IN SCUFFLE

Carpenter Says Man Released Woman and Stepped Out of Sight Near Parked Auto.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—The State opened the presentation of its testimony today in the trial of James H. Snook for the murder of Theora Hix, with the story of Charles R. Murray, a carpenter, who told of seeing a man and a woman scuffling near a parked automobile on the New York Central rifle range the night of June 13, when Miss Hix was killed.

Murray said that as he drew near the man released the woman and stepped out of sight. Murray said he did not stop.

When the State turned the witness over to the defense, Attorney E. O. Ricketts asked that the testimony be stricken out, as there was nothing to identify the parties as Snook and Miss Hix. Judge Scarritt overruled the objection.

Tells of Finding Body.

Paul Krumlauf, 16-year-old high school boy who, with Milton O'Brien, found the body of Miss Hix the day after the killing, told how he came upon the body. Assistant Prosecutor Paul Hicks, who examined Krumlauf, introduced as evidence two photographs of the body taken before it was moved from the rifle range.

Ephraim Johnson, 76-year-old farmer, who was plowing in the field adjoining the range, recognized his discovery of the body. After the boys had summoned him, he corroborated Murray's statement that the road leading past the rifle range was a popular place for "petting parties."

Snook lay back in his canvas beach chair today, usually out of sight behind the counsel's table. Snook submitted to another examination by two physicians before court convened today, but defense counsel did not disclose the nature or purpose of the examination. He was still suffering as the result of a spinal test made Saturday. The beach chair was provided for him yesterday after he complained that an upright chair caused him extreme discomfort.

Picture of Snook's Hand.

Proceeding with the identification of State exhibits, Prosecutor Chester called Homer Richter, police photographer who took pictures of Miss Hix's body before and after it was taken from the rifle range. Among them was a photograph of the right hand of Snook, on which the former teacher was wearing a bandage at the time of his arrest. Snook said the hand was injured while repairing an automobile.

Defense Attorney Ricketts objected to the use of the hand photograph, and Judge Scarritt ruled that it be laid aside until later in the case. Then Ricketts objected to the use of a framed photograph of Miss Hix, which the prosecutor offered as evidence to show the jury how the woman appeared before she was slain. This objection was also sustained for the present.

To Frank H. Russell, Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co., Garden City, N. Y.: "Our gratitude to the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. only equaled by our belief that scope of Curtiss-Keys group in aviation made our flight possible and guaranteed unlimited future for organization."

To C. S. Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service, New York City: "Any contribution by us to the safety and development of future commercial aviation just part of the day's work for the Curtiss Flying Service. Organization made our flight possible. Call when we will be thoroughly inspected."

The St. Louis Robin was made spick and span for the tour. It received a gasoline bath yesterday and marred places on the wing and fuselage were painted. The door, removed during the cleaning process, had not been replaced this morning and O'Brien placed it beside him in the cockpit.

Chaffee, who has had no practice in sleeping on gasoline tanks, squatted in the aft cockpit of the refueler as it took off. He tried to install a wicker chair in the plane, but the opening was too small.

"Will Open This One Up."

Mechanics were still busy shining up the St. Louis Robin when the motor was started. Jackson inspected the engine and later called on Seth Prince, engine expert, to make minor adjustments. "We will open this one up," Jackson declared, referring to the slow pace at which the record-breaking engine was run.

The refueling plane got off first, followed in order by Batts, the endurance plane, and Maj. Robert

POLICE ON EMERGENCY CALLS EXEMPT FROM TRAFFIC RULES

May Use One-Way Streets in Either Direction, Safety Officer Says, as May Firemen.

Fire and police cars responding to emergency calls have the right of way over all traffic in the city and may travel in either direction on streets restricted to one-way traffic. Girard C. Varnum, manager of the Safety Council, declared yesterday in response to inquiries. Varnum cited a city ordinance in support of his opinion.

Ordinary calls police are required to observe rules of traffic, Varnum added.

ROBIN ARRIVES IN CHICAGO ON TOUR OF 13 CITIES

To Stay With Curtiss.

After giving a demonstration on Long Island the flyers are scheduled to be the guests of Charles S. (Casey) Jones, president of Curtiss Flying Service, at the New York headquarters of the organization. Other than to announce that their future will be with the Curtiss interests, plans for the flyers beyond the tour have not been made.

It is expected the flyers will return here tomorrow for a brief stop before going on to Kansas City, where their demonstration will be the feature of a program dedicating Fairfax Airport on Sunday.

Two men employed by the club to take golf balls from the lake were in a boat about 40 yards away. The boy's body was recovered by a life guard summoned from the club's swimming pool.

W. L. Pfeffer, president of the club, said that the boy was not employed by the club and that cables had been warned not to enter the lake.

The boy was said to have been able to swim.

JACKSON UNABLE TO ATTEND HOME-TOWN AIRPORT OPENING.

Dale Jackson will be unable to attend the scheduled opening of an airport named for him at Faribault, Minn., his home town, he wired the Airport Committee there today. The ceremony at Faribault was scheduled for Aug. 9.

Other telegrams were sent by the flyers today, the first responses to congratulatory messages received on their flight:

To Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, New York City:

"Your generous expression of felicitations on our success cheered us immeasurably. Advantages of Curtiss-Keys group organization behind us points to unlimited possibilities for Curtiss Flying Service."

To F. F. Truby, Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation:

"Your message of congratulation completed success of our undertaking for us."

To Senator Hiram Bingham, chairman, National Aeronautic Association: "Our sincere thanks for your commendation."

To Frank H. Russell, Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co., Garden City, N. Y.: "Our gratitude to the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. only equaled by our belief that the scholarship will be president and Edison honorary president."

Charles Edison, son of the inventor and a member of the Advisory Committee, announced that "in fairness to the boys" none of the answers to the examination questions would be made public. They will be locked in files, possibly for the inventor's reference in the future.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 2.—Twenty-two persons, mostly children, were severely burned here this afternoon after an ice cream truck overturned. The victims were sprayed with flaming gasoline.

One of the victims, John Muha, 5 years old, is seriously burned. He is in Chambersburg Hospital. Seventeen were treated at St. Francis Hospital, keeping six physicians busy for two hours.

Joseph Dillihawes, driving the truck, made a sharp swerve to the left, upsetting it.

While a wrecking crew was getting ready to move the vehicle, some one took off the cap of the gasoline tank. The gasoline flowed over the heated motor of the truck and the fuel exploded.

YONERBURG, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Thrown through the windshield of her automobile when it collided with a parked car last night near Relfoot Lake, Mrs. J. M. Todd, 40 years old, of Dixon, Mo., was killed. Her husband, who was driving, escaped with minor injuries. Several Negroes occupied the parked car.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DESIGNER OF ROBIN MOTOR HURT IN PLANE COLLISION

Arthur Nutt Suffers Possible Fracture of Jaw in Cleveland Accident.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—Arthur Nutt, who designed the Challenger engine used in the St. Louis Robin that broke the world's endurance flight record, suffered a possible fracture of the jaw in a collision of two airplanes at the Cleveland airport yesterday.

William Warrick, pilot of the other plane, was uninjured.

Plotting a Curtiss-Robin monoplane, Nutt was taking off at the airport.

Evidently Nutt did not see Warrick's biplane, which was landing, and the two ships came together with a crash. Nutt, whose home is in Buffalo, was thrown against the instrument board of his plane and was taken out unconscious.

Nutt was en route from St. Louis to Buffalo at the time of the accident. His plane is similar to the one which won the world's endurance record at St. Louis this week.

He is chief of the motors division of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motors Corporation.

Nutt left Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday morning after making a perfecory test of the engine of the St. Louis Robin. The engine is to be shipped to the Curtiss motor plant at Buffalo, where Nutt had intended examining it thoroughly to obtain technical data. He flew to St. Louis from Buffalo last week after the endurance record had been broken.

HOLDING COMPANY FOR NORTH SIDE BANKS PROPOSED

Plan Is for Corporation to Control Northwestern Trust Co. and North St. Louis Trust Co.

The application of the holding company idea to neighborhood banks is contemplated by stockholders of the Northwestern Trust Co., 1500 St. Louis avenue, and the North St. Louis Trust Co., 2500 North Grand boulevard, who have been discussing the feasibility of organizing a corporation to take over ownership of the two banks by the exchange of stock.

Negotiations reached the point yesterday where letters were sent to the stockholders of the two banks asking them to deposit their shares with an organization committee for exchange if the deal is consummated.

Under the plan, the two banks would continue in business without changes in personnel, location or policies, and all shares would be held by the proposed holding corporation, to be known as the Northwestern Company.

Plan Tentatively Approved.

Attorneys for the banks have discussed the plan with the State Banking Department and the proposal has been apparently tentatively outlined. The organizers think that the plan would not violate the State branch banking law which has been rigidly enforced against downtown banks seeking to establish branches in outlying districts.

The organization committee, which formulated the plan, consists of Charles Maul, president; and Edward C. Hanpeter and George F. Ellerbrock, vice presidents, of the Northwestern Trust Co., and Louis Boeger, president; Charles W. Owen, secretary-treasurer, and Alfred W. Pauley, a stockholder of the North St. Louis Trust Co.

Exchange of Shares.
Each Northwestern Trust Co. share would be exchanged for 20 shares of Northwestern company stock, and each North St. Louis Trust Co. share for 10 shares of Northwestern company. This would account for 120,000 shares of the new stock with a par value of $20. A capital setup of 250,000 shares to provide for the acquisition of other neighborhood banks has been considered.

The Northwestern Trust Co. has a capital of $500,000; surplus of $500,000 and deposits of $10,000,000; the North St. Louis Trust Co. capital of $200,000; surplus of $143,080, and deposits of $2,818,293. The former company was organized in 1873 as the Northwestern Savings Bank with a capital of $16,000; the North St. Louis Trust Co. is about 20 years old.

COURT DEFINES RIGHTS OF BACK-SEAT DRIVER

When one hires a chauffeur for the family automobile he automatically acquires the right to do all the back-seat driving he wishes, Police Judge Beck ruled yesterday.

Mrs. Sarah Baron, 7214 Maryland avenue, testified that Louis Recht, chauffeur for the Baron family, disturbed her peace last Friday by purposely driving the car jerkily, finally resigning on the spot and throwing the car keys at her when she directed him to turn in the middle of the block in front of the house she was intending to visit.

Recht testified he was "almost a nervous wreck from 8 o'clock in the morning until after midnight and from taking orders from Mrs. Baron." He denied throwing the keys and said if he drove jerkily it was inadvertent. He was fined $25 and he appealed.

LIFER FIRST TIME OUT IN 43 YEARS SEES AUTO

Jesse Pomeroy Rides in One,
Watches Plane and Eats
Ice Cream.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Jesse Harding Pomeroy, most widely known lifer of the Massachusetts State Prison at Charlestown, stepped into an automobile for the first time in his 70 years of life yesterday and promptly lost his cloak of studied indifference when the wonders of the modern world, denied to his vision for 43 years, unfolded before him as he was transferred to the State Farm at Bridgewater.

Pomeroy ate his first ice cream cone outside a Randolph drug store, and liked it. He saw an airplane take off from the West Bridgewater airport. He saw a steam shovel for the first time and marveled at its companion road roller. He saw thousands of automobiles and asked: "Aren't there more horses?"

He saw skyscrapers, elevated trains, freight cars and human beings by the thousands, human beings who stared at him in the back seat of a Department of Corrections sedan and pushed against the windows when the car stopped, frightening him so that he pulled his cap over his face and sank his chin into his coat.

Pomeroy lived one hour and 55 minutes of his life in the free air, beneath green trees, beside green grass and the rolling blue hills south of Boston. Then he entered the institution where he will receive needed hospital care and probably end his days.

Fifty-three years ago Jesse Pomeroy entered the State prison to serve a life term for the murder of a child. For six years in the earlier eighties he, with the entire prison colony, was incarcerated at Concord.

Since 1886, when he returned to Charlestown, he had not been beyond the walls and bars of his prison home. The modern world he never had seen, although he had viewed reproductions in picture and story.

He could not find words to express his reactions yesterday. He could only look and listen, turn and stare.

Forty-nine years ago, when Pomeroy left his cell at Concord, he walked in a chain gang, handcuffed and chained to his fellow prisoners. Yesterday he walked out of State prison with hands free. No uniformed armed guards accompanied him. Two State agents, with his commitment papers to Bridgewater, and two other prisoners, also going for hospital treatment, were his companions.

ROBBER CAPTURED AFTER HOLDING UP DOWNTOWN CAFE

Thief Arrives by Motorcycle at Dew Drop Inn, 205 North Eleventh, Uses Pliers as Revolver.

A holdup man using a motorcycle and a pair of pliers was captured early today after robbing a downtown restaurant.

At 3 o'clock the man parked his motorcycle outside the Dew Drop Inn, 205 North Eleventh street, adjusted sun goggles over his eyes and walked in.

"Lie face down on the floor," he ordered the night manager, Glenn Phipps. Phipps obeyed, assuming a pair of pliers which the robber clasped in one pocket was a revolver.

Another employee, Malcolm McCall, seated in a rear room, went out of the back door and returned shortly with Private Watchman John Ryan. The holdup man, who had taken $57.30 from the cash register, ran toward his motorcycle, but was intercepted by a detective, Charles Rowland. The loot was recovered.

The prisoner said he was Hallett Marshall, 28 years old, 1725 Franklin avenue, a motor cycle driver for a delivery firm.

Three Negroes at 2 a. m. broke a plate glass window in the shoe store of Isadore Matler, 2708 Market street, stole four pairs of shoes and escaped after a chase in which they were shot at by Patrolman Loehr and Detectives Pearson and Kierman. Two and a half hours later Private Watchman Smith discovered a Negro looting the same store. He fired at the Negro, who escaped, abandoning one brown shoe and one black shoe.

William Guthrie, manager of the French restaurant, 4504 Page boulevard, was held up by an armed man and robbed of $15 at midnigh.

Two men yesterday held up Herman Rosenfeld, a clerk in the office of the Empire Feed and Coal Co., 812 South Third street, forced him to give up the key to the cash drawer and escaped with $7. The men attempted to force Rosenfeld to open the company safe, but he refused.

REFUELING ROUND TRIP FLIGHT ACROSS U. S. TO BE ATTEMPTED N. B. Mamer Will Try to Establish Endurance Record; Plans Take-off Aug. 10.

By the Associated Press.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 2.—Tentative plans for making refueling contacts at various places in the United States while he flies from the west to the east coast and return in an attempt to establish a new record for endurance flying were announced here today by N. B. Mamer, Spokane aviator.

Mamer said he expected to take off Aug. 10. He plans to fly to San Francisco and thence to New York, returning to Spokane for the finish of the flight. To establish a new record he must remain in the air more than 420 hours. The tentative refueling schedule calls for contacts with planes at San Francisco, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Cleveland, New York, St. Paul and Spokane.

The first refueling on the return trip would be at Cleveland, the second at St. Paul, and the third at Spokane.

WILLIAM E. HUGO'S ALIMONY REDUCTION PLEA IS HEARD

Counsel Says Muscle Teacher's Income Is Only $170 a Month; Court Defers Action.

William E. Hugo, who conducts four music schools in St. Louis, has a monthly income of only $170, his attorney contended yesterday in asking for a reduction in the temporary alimony of $150 a month granted his wife, Thelma, in June. Mrs. Hugo's lawyer expressed doubt about Hugo's "poverty plea."

A hearing was held before Circuit Judge Woolfolk at St. Charles on a change of venue. Because the temporary alimony has not been paid, Judge Woolfolk declined to take action but continued the case until the October terms.

Hugo's attorney said his client would not contest his wife's suit for divorce, filed several months ago after Mrs. Hugo and a woman acquaintance of Hugo had fought in the Odeon Building.

RAID ON COMMUNIST CAMP

Literature and Banners Seized Near San Bernardino, Cal.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 2.—Alleged communist literature and banners were reported by District Attorney G. H. Johnson to have been seized in a raid by him last night upon a summer camp for the Young Workers' Communist League in the San Bernardino Mountains, 25 miles east of here.

Forty scantly clad children, who were described as Russians from Los Angeles, were taken from the camp to be placed in custody of a probation officer. The District Attorney stated the seized evidence would be the basis upon which the county would start abatement proceedings against the community. The children were in charge of several Russian men and women. Above the camp, Johnson reported, waved a red flag carrying the emblem of communism, a sickle and hammer.

LINEMAN KILLED

AT WORK ON POLE

Alvin Dauderman Electrocuted in Rear of 31 Westmoreland Place.

Alvin Dauderman, a lineman for the Union Electric Light & Power Co., was electrocuted at 8:30 a.m. today while working with a crew in the rear of 31 Westmoreland place.

The crew foreman, Claude De-gunt, said Dauderman had climbed a pole to replace a bolt and came in contact with a high voltage wire. He cried out and fell back, but his safety belt held him to the pole until fellow workers climbed up and brought him down.

Efforts to revive him through the use of inhalators were made for two and a half hours under the direction of Dr. Paul Fletcher, chief surgeon of the Union Electric.

Dauderman was 29 years old, married and lived at 1014 McCausland avenue.

THREE MEMBERS OF BOMB RING IN CHICAGO CONFESS Grand Jury to Get Evidence of Organization Which Sold and Placed Explosives.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Three detailed confessions obtained by police and county prosecutors from members of an alleged bombing syndicate were relied upon today to lead officials to other members of the band and to furnish much of the evidence that will be placed before a grand jury early next week.

Under questioning three of 17 men arrested Wednesday night confessed that they and the others were implicated in a bombing ring which, for a stipulation, would make bombs and place them where directed.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney, announced he believed that Al Capone, gang chief now serving time in a Philadelphia jail, was the real genius of the ring. James Belcastro, one of those under arrest, is known to police as a confidant of Capone.

Capone was interested in the bombing business, Roche explained, because it furnished an easy and cheap way of putting rivals in the alcohol field out of business. Rival stills would be bombed, Roche said, and firemen and police would take it for granted that they had exploded.

NEW YORK G. O. P. SELECTS LA GUARDIA FOR MAYOR Unofficial Choice of Congressman Expected to Be Ratified at Primary.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Congressman Fiorello H. LaGuardia, who grew up on an Arizona army post and last fought his way up from Private to Major in the American Expeditionary Forces, has been picked by New York City Republicans to run for Mayor this fall against Mayor Walker.

At last night's unofficial Republican convention LaGuardia's was the only name presented to the delegates. A boom for Mrs. Ruth Pratt, wealthy widow, who resigned last fall from the Board of Aldermen to go to Congress, collapsed when she withdrew her name.

The convocation was unofficial in that the city holds a primary election, which is expected to result merely in endorsement of the convention's choice.

Duchess Flying to India.

LYMPNE, England, Aug. 2.—The Duchess of Bedford, England's flying Duchess, started in her blue monoplane today on an attempt to fly 10,000 miles to India and back in a week. Capt. T. D. Barnard piloted the machine with Bob Little acting as engineer and second pilot. The plane is called the "Spider."

DIES OF HEAT PROSTRATION George Tucker Overcome While Hauling Coal.

Tucker collapsed at 6 p. m. while hauling coal at 5951 Schulte avenue, and died at the hospital four hours later.

THE BOND CLOTHES REMOVAL SALE

Starts Saturday Morning at 8

This far-reaching event also marks the tenth record-breaking year of Bond's phenomenal progress in St. Louis. In ten short years we've come from "scratch" to a business that now seriously over-taxes the facilities of our present home. In those ten years, we've won the friendship and business of so many thousands of St. Louisans, that we're now forced to double our selling space. Saturday morning, we take the first step of our move to the handsome new Bond store, soon to be opened at 8th and Washington. Saturday our complete stocks go on sale — at reductions that would be out-of-the-question under any other conditions. We're going to "clean house" from top to bottom. We're going to open our new home with a brand-new stock of clothes! We must have quick, decisive action, and we're giving you prices that'll get it. Right now selections are complete in every detail — so get in early and get first choice.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1929

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ONLY ONE WITNESS AGAINST ST. LOUIS
AIR MAIL PLEA

be to connect St. Louis directly with Cleveland, which would then afford a route to New York only 27 miles longer than a route going directly in a straight line from St. Louis to New York. This would have the advantage to the Government of saving the lighting of 363 miles of airway.

"Another disadvantage which appears to us from an examination of the localities over which a direct route would fly is that of terrain. A route from St. Louis through Cleveland and thence to New York over the present airway includes considerably less hazardous miles of flying than would the straight line route proposed. This is occasioned by the comparative lengths of the two routes over the mountains and the fact that the proposed route would probably go via Pittsburgh, where serious difficulty would be encountered due to the smoke and haze prevalent in that territory combined with the very hazardous terrain all the way from the Ohio River to a point considerably east of Altoona.

"A direct connection between St. Louis and Cleveland would afford service eastbound at a closing hour only a few minutes earlier than were the route directly from St. Louis to New York (about 20 minutes). Likewise, incoming mail from the East would arrive in St. Louis only about 20 minutes earlier in the morning on the direct route, and at an hour later, before business houses opened in either case."

Argues Against Line to Dallas

Commenting on the proposed direct route from St. Louis to Dallas, the letter continued:

"It is assumed that the proposal for this line is for two purposes: To give the Southwest a more direct connection with New York. It will be remembered that the lights are already installed on C. A. M. 's between St. Louis and Kansas City and that as soon as night operations begin there, overnight service will be available for Fort Worth and Dallas to St. Louis. This service, it might be pointed out, will permit a very early morning arrival in St. Louis and eliminate any real need for a direct connection from the service standpoint.

"Considering the service from Dallas and Fort Worth to New York, if a line were established directly from Fort Worth and Dallas to St. Louis, via Tulsa, and then directly into New York, our measurement of distances indicates that a total mileage saving of only 186 miles would result. Of course, the actual saving would be less than this amount because the location of intermediate stops and the advisability of following ground transportation to some extent would cut down the saving very materially.

"From the standpoint of service, assuming for the moment that all of the 186 miles could be saved but not forgetting that the new route would traverse east of Pittsburgh which would undoubtedly cause greater delays than the present route, and that the same is true between St. Louis and Tulsa because of the existence of the Ozark country, the saving in time to Dallas would be small indeed.

"If actual conditions along both routes were the same, as it has been pointed out they are not, it might be possible with the proposed direct lines to schedule airplanes out of Dallas eastbound one and one-half hours later and to cause them to arrive one and one-half hours earlier. This would mean that the departure from Fort Worth might be at 12 o'clock in the morning instead of 10 o'clock, and that the arrival in Fort Worth and Dallas would be around 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of 5:30 as is now the case. Either time is too late for local delivery except when special delivery stamps are used.

Tulsa Service Cited.

"One point between St. Louis and Dallas-Fort Worth remains to be discussed—service to Tulsa. Tulsa is already served by both a direct day and night air mail service and in this matter of service to St. Louis, it already has overnight rail service which serves these two cities very well indeed. In addition when night service is established over C. A. M. 's, Tulsa will have night air mail service to St. Louis.

In conclusion, the brief said:

"Our present airways from Chicago south and west are very inadequately served with weather information and communication due to a lack of funds available to the Government bureau responsible for this work. In view of the situation as detailed, it would seem poor economy to establish additional airways not more economically warranted than those discussed before airways already in existence have been provided with proper facilities and aids to navigation which would be available if funds were provided.

"It is desired to point out that at no point in this brief has mention been made of any effect that the establishment of the new airways might have on contracts operated by this company. National Air Transport does not care to make statements based on fear of competitive routes. A careful study of the situation indicates that we might expect a loss of business from the establishment of the routes in question after they are properly equipped for operation. However, because of the terms of the Kelly amendment this becomes a question, not for the operator, but for the Post Office Department—as the rates or pay on lines more than two years old are a matter of adjustment.

"We believe, looking toward the future, that the Government does have an obligation not to establish competitive paralleling air-mail routes to those already in existence and for the operation of which companies have expended large sums and provided large amounts of equipment unless the proposed route provides a service vastly superior to the old or serving such a greatly increased population that their demands cannot be ignored. The routes in question serve no city not now already served."

St. Louis "The Heart and Head."

All the southwestern witnesses pledged heavy volumes of air mail from their communities. All stressed the fact that the Southwest was naturally trade territory of St. Louis rather than Kansas City or Chicago, but it remained for Charles H. Hopkins of Tulsa, employed by the State of Oklahoma as an aviation adviser, to coin the best phrases.

"St. Louis," said Hopkins, "is the heart and head of all our financial transactions. We go to St. Louis to transact our business as naturally as a farmer goes to the county seat. Tulsa is more closely connected to St. Louis as her own suburbs Tulsa alone would guarantee 443 pounds of air mail a week if she was selected as a stop on the proposed southwestern route."

The weeks of preparation that Walter Wilsenberger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, had devoted to becoming fluent on the air mail needs of St. Louis became apparent when he made the major presentation of the day. He was by far the most impressive speaker and was heard attentively by all members of the committee. He is expected to file a reply brief to the letter offered by Henderson and the National Air Transport. If this letter is unanswered, in the ordinary course of events it will have considerable weight with the committee.

SHOOTS 17-YEAR-OLD WARD ACCIDENTALLY; KILLS SELF

By the Associated Press.
ELIZABETHETON, Tenn., Aug. 2.

John Burnette, 37 years old, Elizabethon attorney, accidentally shot and seriously wounded his 17-year-old ward, Virginia Amaral, last midnight and after killing himself.

Mrs. Burnette, a bride of months, told officers her ward was teaching her how to use pistol and the weapon charged, wounding Miss Amaral.

Burnette ran for a doctor and the doctor was examining Amaral. Burnette picked up pistol, walked to the front and shot himself.

He then returned to his and ward, told them "goodby" slumped across a bed. At the painful physicians said Miss Amaral's condition was serious.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—W. H. H. Miller, former head of the Illinois State Department of Registration and Education, and eight others were named in indictments returned yesterday by the Cook County grand jury charging conspiracy in the issuance of spurious medical licenses. Miller's bond was set at $20,000. He was named in two indictments. L. Mitchell Blaine, a former employee of the Department of Registration and Education, was named in five indictments. His bond was set at $22,500.

The others, each named in three indictments with bonds set at $2500, were Morris Kalman, Albert Karl Barron, Peter Marzio, Harry Goldstein, Illinois Senator Browsky, Robert Lustine, Harry Granger and a man known only as Gordon.

Investigators charged Miller and the others issued fake licenses for untrained doctors on a nation-wide scale. Four St. Louis men, three of whom bought fake licenses, testified before the grand jury.

BOY CAR THIEF TRACED BY HIS CHURCH PAPERS

Youth Confesses Stealing Eight Machines—in Two Accidents.

Church papers bearing the name of John Bartel were in a stolen automobile found abandoned at Sixteenth and Pine streets yesterday afternoon.

This prompted police to question John Bartel Jr., 16 years old, 4411 De Tonty street, who had been lodged at the House of Detention following his arrest Wednesday night while prowling in the basement of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., Sixteenth and Locust streets.

Young Bartel confessed stealing the car and seven others which he drove until the gasoline gave out and then abandoned. Two cars were damaged in accidents in which he and a woman were injured.

Beginning July 22, Bartel, according to police, admitted stealing cars belonging to Alexander Sonnenschein, 4345 Shaw avenue; George Kessler, 3950 Blaine avenue; Charles Moseley, 4084 Northland avenue; Cecil Bushy, 1008 South Vandeventer avenue; Rubin Walsh, 4075 Giles avenue; Albert Jones, 4518 McPherson avenue; Albert D'Vorak, 3416 North Eleventh street, and Ernest Dunkman, 4201 North Twenty-first street.

The Dunkman car was the one in which Bartel left his church confirmation papers. While driving the Jones car, he ran down and injured Mrs. Ellen Ready, 63, 4453 Hunt avenue, Monday night, and fled. In another accident, he suffered cuts and bruises.

The prisoner also admitted looting lockers at the Y. M. C. A. and stealing about $25. His mother turned over to police $8 which he had given her with the statement he had earned it running errands.

600 TRADE GROUPS ASK FOR RULING ON CIGARETTE ADS

Letter to U. S. Commission Refers to Complaints About Campaign Involving Food.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—In a letter addressed to the Federal Trade Commission, 600 national and local trade associations have joined in requesting the commission to make public its findings on the complaints lodged against "the shameless exploitation of women and children by cigarette interests which are attempting to substitute nicotine for the consumption of wholesome foods."

The letter, presented through the National Food Products Protective Committee, contended that the campaign sponsored by a single manufacturer "is opposed to the interests of the tobacco trade as a whole, to the interests of honest cigarette manufacturers and to the overwhelming majority of American producers and manufacturers."

Bear Masher With Umbrella. Welding an umbrella, Miss Frieda Breuermann, 3711 Iowa avenue, last night beat off a man who jumped out of a machine, as it pulled up to the curb in front of 3708 Iowa avenue and invited Miss Breuermann to get in and ride. She refused and the man seized her. When she had struck him several times the man fled to the automobile in which there were two other men, and was driven away.

$2,057,000,000
PAID IN '28 ON LIFE INSURANCE

Of This Total for U. S. and Canada, Missourians Received $63,500,000, St. Louisans $10,850,000.

$205,380 ON POLICY OF EDWARD J. WALSH

Figures in the National Underwriter—Amount Exceeds $2,000,000,000 for First Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Life insurance companies in the United States and Canada paid $2,057,000,000 to beneficiaries and policyholders in 1928, of which $10,850,000 went to St. Louisans and $63,500,000 to Missourians, including residents of St. Louis. With the addition of payments of $10,000 and more in St. Louis County suburbs the St. Louis figure mounted to $11,725,146.

These figures are taken from the annual "life payments number" of The National Underwriter, which relates that the 1928 total, in the $2,000,000,000 class for the first time, exceeded that of 1927 by $317,000,000, or about double the increase of 1927 over 1926.

The largest life insurance payment upon the death of a St. Louisan in 1928 is listed as $205,380, under the policies of Edward J. Walsh, financier, of 4349 Westminister place.

Other Local Benefits.

Other death benefits for residents of St. Louis and suburbs included:

Charles A. Clark, Webster Groves, $151,000.

Robert H. Keiser, investment broker and former secretary of the Missouri Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, $125,000.

Walter W. Candy, founder of the Busy Bee Candy Co., $120,000.

Dr. Greenfield Sluder, internationally known nose and throat specialist and president of the American Laryngological Society, $119,037.

Breckinridge Jones, chairman of the board of the old Mississippi Valley Trust Co., $112,500.

Harry Benjamin, president of the Benjamin Equipment Co., $52,500.

Louis Landau, president of the Landau Wholesale Grocery Co., $50,000.

Allan H. Baker, grain broker, $38,500.

William A. C. Halwe, $34,000.

William E. Baird, general manager of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., $30,000.

Clarence M. Pease, president of the Perkins Transfer & Forwarding Co., $30,000.

Dr. Don R. Joseph, Clayton, associate dean of St. Louis University Medical School, between $20,000 and $25,000.

$140,647 on Forbes Policy.

On the life of Robert M. Forbes, Alton, president of the James H. Forbes Tea and Coffee Co. of St. Louis, $140,647 was paid. On the lives of E. Miltenberger Cain and Michael C. Reis, East St. Louis lumber dealers, $75,000 and $31,000 were paid, respectively.

The largest life insurance payment in Missouri last year was that of $55,000 upon the death of August F. Seested, president and general manager of the Kansas City Star. There were only 21 larger payments in the country. Other large payments in Kansas City were: George G. Wright, $25,500; Herbert C. Tureman, $14,605; Walter R. Hoy, $10,000; Allen D. Bonnefield, $5,042; Melville Levy, $38,000; James J. Flanagan, $30,357; Frank A. Bower, John A. Edson, Phillip T. Gleason, Edwin H. Marshall and Oscar H. Davis, $30,000 each.

Other large Missouri payments were: Phillip Rositzky, St. Joseph, $4,000; Edwin Long, Rolla, $2,000; Thomas J. Glynn, Springfield, $3,000, and Arthur N. Brown, Madison, $30,000.

There were a number of instances in St. Louis and suburbs where payments were listed without publication of the names of the persons insured. The larger items of this nature were: $120,000 each.

Missouri in Tenth Place.

Missouri ranked tenth in the total amount of life insurance payments in 1928 among the American states, the District of Columbia, all of Canada and Hawaii. Those ahead of it, in order, were New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Canada, Massachusetts, California, New Jersey and Michigan. St. Louis proper ranked seventh among the cities, being a newcomer in the $10,000,000 class. Cities ahead of it were: New York, $85,046,000; Chicago, $42,500,000; $1,032,000 and John M. Coward of Philadelphia, $23,023,000; Pittsburgh, $12,700,000; Brooklyn (listed separately from New York), $12,179,000; Detroit, $11,930,000. Following St. Louis in order were Cleveland, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Buffalo, Baltimore, Minneapolis, Kansas City and San Francisco.

The largest payment in the country was $5,23,450 on the policies of Rodman Wanamaker of Philadelphia and New York.

Those ahead of it, in order, were New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Canada, Massachusetts, California, New Jersey and Michigan.

St. Louis proper ranked seventh among the cities, being a newcomer in the $10,000,000 class. Cities ahead of it were: New York, $85,046,000; Chicago, $42,500,000; $1,032,000 and John M. Coward of

New York and Glen Ridge, N. J. $1,005,000.

Many Claims under $30,000.

All told payments on 26 lives insured for $500,000 or more each aggregated only $28,176,000 and to $500,000 they were $31,144,000 while on $29 lives insured for $30,000 to $100,000 payments were $25,741,000. For the huge mass of claims under $30,000 the insurance companies paid out the greater part of the grand total, or $1,971,637,000.

"A notable thing this year (1928)" says The National Underwriter, "is the absence of prominent names among the lists of large policyholders whose policies were matured by death. Rodman Wanamaker, of course, was known throughout the country, but the list down to $100,000 is made up of men whose fame had not extended beyond their own communities. In other words, life insurance is being used extensively by men who have made fortunes in business without gaining prominence in any other way. . . . There are many substantial payments large enough to keep a family from want. The day of the $1000 policy is practically gone and of the $500 policy is passing."

Big Incubator at Berryville, Ark.

ST. JOE, Ark.—Frank A. Cox of Blue Eye, Mo., and Elliott H. Bobo of Berryville, have purchased a new 16,000-egg incubator, to be electrically operated, and will conduct a hatchery at Berryville. Cox

U. S. TOURIST IN SPAIN
SAYS THEFT WAS JOKE

B. J. Dee, Chicago Banker Had Been Drinking When He Robbed Escorial Palace.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, Aug. 2.—In the historic town of Escorial, Bucky J. Dee of Chicago is still in jail today as a result of what he claims was a thoughtless and ill-advised prank in taking from a wall of a royal palace a valuable porcelain plaque. The incident occurred last Wednesday when Dee and his wife, members of a party of 25 tourists, visited the palace. Dee at first would say only, "It is a mistake. I have done nothing."

Later he said that he had been drinking and thought it would be a joke to pretend to take as a souvenir one of the porcelain plaques. He said he did not realize the value of the piece and merely intended to take it in fun.

Then he became alarmed and tried to hide the plaque when he saw guards consider his action a serious offense. Within half an hour after the plaque had been taken it was found by guards and restored to its place on the palace wall.

At first considerable liberties were allowed Dee in jail, but yesterday was placed "incommunicado." The people of the town seem to show no feeling against the American tourist. They say the joke seems to be on him. Unofficially it is stated Dee may have to stay in jail somewhat longer, then may be released provisionally under bail pending formal trial.

Kress Drives in Two Runs With Double; Jim Bottomley Hits Homer

MANUSH KEPT OUT OF GAME BY ILLNESS; M'GOWAN IN RIGHT

By James M. Gould of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Browns lost to the Senators this afternoon in the final game of the series. The Browns won only one of four games played.

The score was 5 to 2. It was slightly cooler, but not more than the usual faithful 1500 and 500 women guests turned out for the proceedings.

Manush had a slight attack of ptomaine poisoning and was out of play. This put McGowan back in the game.

Ormsby and Dineen were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Blue fouled to Cronin. O'Rourke sent Goslin back for his hard drive. McGowan doubled to right. Schulte walked. Kress doubled over Goslin's head, scoring McGowan and Schulte. McNeely was safe when Cronin fumbled his grounder. Kress going to third. Mellilo fouled to Judge. TWO RUNS.

SENATORS—Judge walked. Rice was called out on strikes. Goslin flied to McNeely. Myer walked. West also walked and the bases were full. Tate popped to O'Rourke.

SECOND—BROWNS—Manion grounded to Cronin. Crowder was out. Judge to Hadley, who covered first. Blue doubled off the right-field fence. O'Rourke flied to Rice.

SENATORS—Cronin drew the fourth pass off Crowder. The fifth pass went to Hayes. Hadley sacrificed. O'Rourke to Mellilo, who covered first. Judge singled through the box, scoring Cronin and Hayes with runs which tied the score. Kress threw out Rice. Judge going to second. Mellilo threw out Goslin. TWO RUNS.

THIRD—BROWNS—McGowan grounded to Myer. Schulte flied to Rice. Kress flied to Goslin.

SENATORS—Kress went out into left for a nice catch of Myers' fly. West singled to right. Mellilo caught Tate's pop fly and then trying to double West off first, threw over Blue's head and went to third. Cronin popped to Kress.

FOURTH—BROWNS—McNeely popped to Hayes. Mellilo and Manion popped a hit to left. Mellilo stopping at second. Crowder hit into a double play. Hadley to Myer to Judge.

SENATORS—Hayes flied to McGowan. Hadley was called out on strikes. Judge tripped to right center, but was out trying to make it a home run. Schulte to Mellilo to Manion.

FIFTH—BROWNS—Blue was called out on strikes. O'Rourke popped to Cronin. McGowan singled to center. Myer threw out Schulte.

SENATORS—Rice singled to center. Goslin popped to O'Rourke. McNeely stumbled as he was about to catch Myers' drive and it went for a triple. Rice scoring. West hit to Mellilo and Myer scored when he beat a bad throw by Mellilo home. Tate forced West. Kress to Mellilo. Cronin forced West. Mellilo unassisted. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH—BROWNS—Kress lined to West. McNeely flied to Rice. Hadley tossed out Mellilo.

SENATORS—McGowan made a nice catch of Hayes' long drive. Hadley fanned to Blue. Judge fanned to Manion.

SEVENTH—BROWNS—Manion flied to West. Crowder fouled to Cronin. Blue walked. O'Rourke popped to Hayes.

MANDELL RULES A 2 TO 1 FAVORITE FOR TITLE BOUT WITH CANZONERI

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION TO HAVE TWO-POUND WEIGHT ADVANTAGE IN 10-ROUND DECISION GO, TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Sammy Mandell weighed exactly 135 pounds, the lightweight limit, when he weighed in before the Illinois State Boxing Commission today for his 10-round title fight tonight against Tony Canzoneri. The challenger weighed 132½ pounds.

A heavy rain, which appeared to be an all day and night soaking, did not dampen the enthusiasm for the fight, and Promoter Paddy Harmon said a sell out crowd of 25,000 and gate receipts of $140,000 was assured. Mandell still stood a two to one favorite at weighing-in time.

In making the lightweight limit, Mandell surprised many who believed he would be too heavy and be forced to go in over weight and lose his title. Even Canzoneri, who peered over his shoulders at the scales, evinced surprise.

Tony Given Little Chance.

So clearly did the Rockford Shiek turn back the title bid for Jimmy McLarnin, a pile driving hitter of the Canzoneri type, in his last championship battle, that few observers grant Tony much more than a chance. Although the champion has spent the past year in comparative idleness because of injuries, he has displayed impressive form during his workouts and his left is apparently as busy as ever.

Canzoneri stacked his hopes in his right hand and his ability to sting the champion early and force him to slow up long enough so he can slip over his devastating smashes to the head.

Both fighters were confident over the outcome and neither seemed worried.

Both Boxers Confident.

"I do not like to make predictions, but I forecast Canzoneri will not bother me any more than McGraw or McLarnin did," Sammy said. "I am at my best now and have had no trouble in getting down to the 135-pound limit. I plan to set a fast pace at the start

"I will give all I have and I am certain of winning," Tony countered. "It'll be a tough fight, though."

Tonight's battle will be the third title Mandell has defended the title he won from Rocky Kansas in 1926. In his first bout he handed Phil McGraw, the Detroit Greek, an unmerciful whipping and last year he forced those critics who couldn't see him as champion to praise him by thrashing Jimmy McLarnin. Win or lose tonight, Mandell expects to go campaigning for the welterweight title. He defeated Jackie Fields, the new champion, once and is confident he can repeat.

Ray Miller, Chicago left hook artist, will meet Luis Vicentini of Chile in the 10-round semi-windup and Harmon hopes to match the winner with the victor of the Mandel-Canzoneri fight for the title.

Both Boxers Confident.

French Press Not Interested in Prospective Channel Swimmers

By the Associated Press.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 2.—Ten prospective Channel swimmers, eight women and two men, have been in training at this take-off cape for several weeks, and there has not been 10 lines in the French newspapers about their activities.

Five years ago the appearance of one lone Channel aspirant swimming was good for at least a column.

Dr. Schiffe of Germany and Isak Helmy, the giant Egyptian, who crossed last year after innumerable unsuccessful attempts, complete the swimming colony. Helmy says he has acquired the "weaker sex" vowing to swim the Channel.

Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, billed as the American professional long-distance swimmer, plans to swim from Gris-Nez to Dover and back again. Whatever the outcome of her efforts, Mrs. Huddleston, if her record may be taken as a criterion, is certain to spend more hours in the water than any of the other nine contestants.

The Zittinfeld twins, American girls, aged 15; the Misses Ivy Hawke, Joan Brunton, Molly Parker and Connie Gilhead of England; and Mademoiselle Estelle Delanoy of France, are the other members of the "weaker sex" vowing to swim the Channel.

ATHLETICS ARE NOT "HIGH HAT," COCHRANE SAYS IN DEFENSE OF TEAM

MACK'S STAR SAYS HARRIS' STATEMENT TO PRESS IS UNTRUE

By Mickey Cochrane

(Most Valuable Player American League, 1928.)

(Copyright, 1929.)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—Here goes a story right from the shoulder, in regard to the supposed high-hat Athletics.

We were referred to that way by "Bucky" Harris, who gave out the statement in an interview, and which appeared in print. For that reason I feel justified in saying something about that unfair accusation.

We are accused of wearing the "high-hat" because the players on our club do not make a practice of fraternizing with those on the opposing teams. It makes me wonder what this game is coming to.

Our ball club has fewer high hat players than any other club in the league. In order to judge a man it is necessary to talk with him. And Mr. Harris is in no position to judge our boys for he never talks with any of our players. Maybe he is wearing a high hat. He has been accused of that more often than the Athletics.

All our attention is focused on one object: that of winning daily ball game. And the other team is out on the field with the same intent and purpose. This friendship business on the ball field is a lot of bunk. Off the diamond it is a different matter. Off the ball club, I hope every baseball player in the American league is my friend. But on the club, I admit he is my enemy. However, I don't bear malice against them and as soon as the game is over all is forgotten. That is the way it should be.

It is always said of a winning club that they put on the dog, a pet expression of baseball. It has been said of the Yankees for the past three years that at times you must have a letter of introduction to talk to one of them. Maybe they were thinking of their ball games. More power to them. It must have been the right system.

Baseball to us is a serious business. Some of the ball clubs might take a leaf from our book and confine their energies to winning ball games instead of talking.

A ball player owes it to the public to give his best at all times and it does not give the fan very good impression to see members of both clubs talking and kidding around even though it may not mean a thing. In some leagues

"Bremen Again Sets New Ocean Record."

A ocean greyhound is the Bremen.

A ship admired by all sea-men:

She'll set a record then she'll break it—

When better time is made she'll make it.

Her specialty is record breaking. Her wash the other ships are taking:

Beside this great Atlantic ferry.

The other boats look stationary.

When she gets limbered up the Bremen

Will be a pretty fair speed demon:

If she continues scratching gravel

In nothing flat across she'll travel.

Sounds Reasonable.

While the Bremen may spend a little more for fuel than the other liners, she makes it up in what she saves on meals.

Considering the table they set on those boats one day's board amounts to something.

The only trouble is she is liable to dock before the tourists have finished their game of shuffle board.

And about the time the gamblers get the game organized and everything set to give the suckers a dry cleaning the boat will whistle for the landing.

For this reason the sure-things will probably continue to patronize the more leisurely liners where a gent can be relieved of his surpluses without any undue haste.

this practice is forbidden and it may be well for the American League to consider it.

LINDSTROM OF GIANTS HAS SINUS TROUBLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—"I wish we had a few sick men on our team if it would affect them that way," Manager Hendricks of the Reds said here today regarding the manner. Freddie Lindstrom played the keystone sack for the Giants while ill yesterday.

Lindstrom, who is suffering with sinus trouble, did not know whether he would be able to play until a few minutes before game time. But he did, and how! In four times up he registered a single, a double and a sacrifice fly.

Practically Same Crew.

Seven of the California armament in this year's Poughkeepsie were members of last year's victorious crew. Jack Hughes refereed.

East St. Louis boxers won two out of three special bouts on the amateur fight program of the East Side K of C. last night, in their outdoor arena.

Ross Palmer, East Side welter-weight, defeated Herbert Anderson of Gillepsie, Ill., and Tex Sanders, also an East St. Louis battler, outpointed John Joseph Healy, a Livington, Ill., lightweight.

East St. Louisan, Eddie Boxley, lost a decision to Tommy Childers of Saversville, Ill.

Three preliminary bouts ended in knockouts. Jim Seagrave, K. of C., kayed John Kindel, S. A. C. in two rounds; Lou Dade, K. of C., dropped Jake Purcell, unattached, in the second, and Fred Pilardi, Missouri Pacific A. C., knocked out William Scott, unattached, also in the second round.

Visiting golfers are being granted the freedom of the course without charge to play as many practice rounds as they want, but there probably will be little serious trying for scores until the regular greens are opened Sunday.

CARD ROOKIE TO HURL GAME AT MEXICO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., Aug. 2.—The National Sporting Goods baseball nine of St. Louis, with a St. Louis Cardinal recruit, Reese, slated to work on the mound, will oppose the Mexico Twilight Stars here Sunday in their second appearance of the year.

A pair of three-base hits won for the All-Stars on the first appearance of the season, the St. Louisans dropping a 4 to 3 decision in 10 innings.

Reese hurled two games for St. Louis here last year, and won both of them, though the present Card rookie had to go extra innings to win both cases.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—The Red to the water's edge and its cargo of Canadian ale destroyed in a fire and series of gasoline explosions four miles off Edgewater Beach today. Whether the crew escaped was not learned.

The pilot and crew had disappeared by the time a United States coast guard cutter and two city fire tugs reached the scene. It was not learned whether they were compelled to leap into the water and were drowned or were rescued by a convoy. Capt. John Daily of the coast guard boat, however, expressed the opinion that a convoy boat had taken off the Red Boy's crew and that the boat caught fire from an overheated engine. Every Federal agent on the United States side of Lake Erie had been instructed to watch for the Red Boy, a known rum runner.

Crowd at Dock Cheers North German Lloyd Liner; City Congratulates Officers.

By the Associated Press.

BREMERHAVEN, Germany.

Aug. 2.—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen came home to Bremerhaven today after its maiden round-trip to New York, on which it established new trans-Atlantic crossing records, both going and coming. It docked at 7:30 a.m., completing the voyage from New York in a little more than six days. Its crossing record from New York to Plymouth, England, was four days, 17 hours, 32 minutes.

When the Bremen pulled into Columbus dock it was enthusiastically cheered by a huge crowd. Representatives of the Government and the Bremen Senate went aboard to congratulate the officers. The captain and officers as well as a deputation from crew were on the bridge to receive the visitors.

ROCK ISLAND SILENT ON RAIL DEPRESSION

City Officials Unable to Learn What Company Will Do About Lindell Crossing.

With one week remaining for the railroads to accept the city's ordinance for track depression at Union and Lindell boulevards, city officials are seeking to learn what the Rock Island Railroad intends to do. The last day for acceptance by the roads is Saturday, Aug. 10, after which, if not accepted, the ordinance becomes void.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, and L. R. Bowen, bridge engineer of his office, called on President Gandy of the Rock Island in Chicago yesterday. Kinsey, back at City Hall today, said there would be further conferences with counsel for the road.

Kinsey said today that the Rock Island appeared to be considering abandonment of its present entrance to the city. He would not say what plan for a new entrance is being considered. It was understood several years ago that the Rock Island was considering a connection with the Frisco, west of the city, which would give the Rock Island the use of the Frisco's entrance.

The city officials were informed recently that the Rock Island was unable to come to an agreement with the Wabash as to division of the railroads' share of the cost of the work. The total cost is estimated at $485,000, and the city, under the ordinance, would pay one-third of this, or some $161,000.

Louvain Library Restored, Richer Than Ever Before

Germans Replace 300,000 Volumes Including One of Eleventh Century—Boston Woman Adds Curious Collection on Death.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2.—When the Louvain Library was destroyed by fire in August, 1914, during the German occupation, it contained about 350,000 volumes, including 1500 incunabula and several hundred manuscripts. In the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, valued more than a million dollars. Today it has been completely restored and in some respects is richer than before.

By virtue of the Versailles treaty, the Germans promised to restore the library's contents and since the armistice they have restored a total of 300,000 volumes inclusive of 600 incunabula and 300 manuscripts including one of the eleven cent.

A further 350,000 volumes have been assembled by private contributions from Great Britain, the United States, France, Canada, Poland, Holland, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and China.

The British contribution, with 55,000 volumes, is by far the most important, the next numerous being that of France with 33,000 volumes.

The Japanese contributions alone are worth 2,000,000 yen ($1,000,000) and include a Buddhist manuscript on parchment from the ninth century.

The American contribution includes the curious collection of

U. S. REPORT URGES CLINICS TO HELP IN FAMILY TROUBLES

Children's Bureau Findings Call for Staffs of Psychiatrists, Psychologists and Social Investigators.

OUTGROWTH OF JUVENILE COURT

Would Make Aid Available to Anyone Facing Marital Difficulties, According to Proposed Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Domestic relations clinics, staffed by psychiatrists, psychologists, and social investigators, are recommended in the findings of the United States Children's Bureau after a study of family and domestic relations courts of 26 cities in 16 states.

"These domestic relations clinics should be available to any person desiring help in adjusting troubles growing out of marital relations," the report reads.

The proposed clinics are but one phase of "the new technique of investigation and supervision" urged by the authors of the report, Bernard Flexner and Leuben Oppenheimer, attorneys, and Katherine F. Lenroot, assistant to the chief of the children's bureau.

The proposed plan completed, strengthens the vast distinction between old court procedure and the methods used in the new family courts.

"The old courts relied upon the learning of lawyers; the new courts depend more upon psychiatrists and social workers," it says.

"Justice in the old courts was based upon legal science. In the new courts it is based upon social engineering."

Result of Experience.

The family court movement is described as an outgrowth of the juvenile court, the result of practical experience which has demonstrated that child welfare and family welfare are inextricably intertwined.

"The new socialized procedure is gaining ground steadily," the report sets forth. "Its theory is sound because it is adapted to modern conditions. It must be supplied with the exceptionally trained man and woman power that its success demands. It must be treated frankly as an experiment. Emotionalism must be shunned. Errors must be acknowledged. Facts must be dealt with."

The authors admit that facts are hard to find.

"Nothing is more difficult than to get the truth in a family tangle," they observe.

Research into the field of marital maladjustments is advised, with the warning that "sentimentalism is as dangerous as ignorance."

In the opinion of the authors, the study has shown conclusively that there can be no nationwide formula for the legal adjustment of family problems, because of variations of local conditions. To set up an outline of a "model court" would be detrimental, they hold.

Domestic relations themselves differ with geography, they point out, citing differences in a seaport and an agricultural community.

Certain standards of organization are advised, including specially qualified judges and probation staffs; adequate staffs; procurer work with a view to "official adjustments"; probationary supervision; and a complete case record system.

The domestic relations investigators learned that every city in the country with a population of 100,000 or more has a specially organized children's court, and that less than half but more than one-third of all American divorce cases involve children.

Thinks St. Louis Is Not Getting Its Share of Federal Funds.

The Editor of the Post-Dispatch: WE are informed through the columns of our press that the Government is to give us an "addition to our Postoffice" by erecting a "workshop" east of the present building on Clark avenue.

It is truly remarkable that the Government is building large monumental buildings everywhere, while St. Louis "is supinely on its back, hugging the delusive phantom of hope" that the Government may hand us something without any effort on the part of our Chamber of Commerce or Real Estate Exchange or Board of Aldermen. If the people will wake up and inform themselves, they will understand why Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and others have received more consideration than St. Louis by many millions of dollars.

Our new Federal Building gets an appropriation of $3,850,000 while the United States Government spent over $6,000,000 in 1884 (45 years ago) when prices of material and labor were one-third of present prices.

Now why is it that we cannot have a real monumental postoffice erected in St. Louis, why must we be satisfied with a "workshop"? We have that now; but few people know it. Same is located east of the Union Station on a back street, unnoticed, although it represents an outlay over $1,500,000 for a "workshop" according to Congressman John J. Cochran. Why doesn't this town wake up and get what it is entitled to?

OLD TAXPAYER.

The Nickel and Dime Argument. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN car fares were 5 cents ice cream sodas were a nickel. Ice cream cones still are a nickel. "When car fares were 5 cents, movies were a dime." Those same movies still are a dime.

B. M.

The Squeamish Censors. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AND now the censors at the port of New York have seen fit to exclude the uncensored copy of the finest war book written, "All Quiet on the Western Front." However, why blame them? We are such a modest nation and really should not indulge in reading such stuff (we all laugh at once).

We, the cream of the earth! Haven't we all the world, the autos, all the radios and houses "knew" what we haven't got. So why should our morale be shattered by written books?

In stead of reading we should play the stock market and make whoopee in night clubs.

GUS D. GALANSKY.

Doesn't Care for "The Enchantress." To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NO better put that "opera comique."

"The Enchantress," back on the shelf to gather dust, and finally decay. Alice MacKenzie, the best singer among the stars in the opera, had such a small part she couldn't display her talents. And the new prima donna couldn't be understood.

I only wish to it would have rained a little more Tuesday evening, so we could have got our money refunded. What little rain did fall only served as a further stimulus to sleep.

Now; once is enough. "The Enchantress" could never interest the thousands who usually attend the performances, even though Victor Herbert would attract them.

G. L. BRINKMANN.

Thinks Robin Should Have Flown On. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHERE would Lindbergh be today had authority whispered in his ear: "Turn back from your ocean flight, or I will shut off your gasoline supply."

Where would our war heroes be had sergeants whispered in their ears at the moment of triumph: "You've gone far enough! Go back to your dugout."

The Robin was cut short in its miraculous flight; the heroes wanted to go on, but authority said: "No, return to earth."

Why were they not allowed to fly on, gaining more glory and money?

AMI WRIGHT.

A School Teacher's Snake Bite. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE press informs us that one of our public school teachers was bitten by a snake and went to the city hospital, where she refused to submit to the serum treatment. When she improved without this inoculation, the report was made that they did not think that the snake was a poisoner. If she had allowed the snake to be used, she would likely have suffered more serious results, as the body would then have had to contend with two poisons instead of the original one.

If the snake was not a poisonous one, why was the serum inoculation suggested at all? If more people would show the good judgment of this teacher, it would not be long until these dangerous modern methods of medication would be past history.

JUSTICE IN ENGLAND.

Yes, they do things differently in England. We had occasion yesterday to contrast the British inquiry into the Vestris sinking, which fixed responsibility for the tragedy, with the vague, inconclusive report filed by the American investigating commission. Another case in point may be cited—that of Richard Joshua Reynolds, rich young American.

While driving an automobile in London Reynolds ran down a motorcyclist and killed him. This occurred in May. Reynolds was tried for manslaughter, the prosecution charging him with being drunk at the time of the accident. The jury found him guilty and sentenced him to five months in Brixton Jail. That ended the litigation. Reynolds climbed into the prison van and was driven to the prison, where he has already begun serving his term.

Had this accident occurred in the United States does anyone imagine that young Reynolds would now be in prison garb? Does not everyone know that, if Reynolds had been convicted in a lower court, the legal battle would have only started? If a motion for a new trial was denied the case would be appealed. Through one pretext or another trial would have been delayed or execution of sentence postponed, with the almost certain result that the defendant eventually would have escaped punishment.

Our dissertations on crime in the United States, if put into books, would constitute a forbidding bibliography. Our best minds drench us with lamentations on disrespect for law and the disaster which must inevitably ensue. Through the distinguished Wickerham Commission Mr. Hoover is seeking the causes for this deplorable condition and, hopefully, the cure.

The essential cause, we believe, was fixed long ago by the often quoted indictment returned by William Howard Taft that the administration of criminal justice in the United States is a disgrace.

The remedy proposed by eminent lawyers and advocated by organizations of high character like the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, namely, the simplification of legal practice so that the courts, liberated from the shackles of technicality, may perform their functions, is, we believe, the cure.

The conviction of young Reynolds in the "Old Bailey" and his "Black Maria" ride to Brixton typify English justice, proclaim the efficiency of English courts, explain the English people's respect for law.

They are scrupulously careful about the laws they make in England. They make few of them. Once enacted, the law is enforced. Here we turn out laws in quantity production, flout them openly or covertly or by strategy and, as a result, have achieved the wretched paradox—a paradise of laws and a Gehenna of lawlessness.

ANOTHER MISSOURI DAVIS.

A report from Washington that President Hoover contemplated an extensive shake-up in the Latin-American diplomatic service includes the item that Roy T. Davis of Missouri is slated for promotion. Davis, for the last seven years, has been Minister to Costa Rica. It is believed that if he is not made an Ambassador he will at least be given a more important assignment in the ministerial grade.

Davis is not what is known as a "career man" in diplomacy. He went into it by the old-fashioned political route. There is abundant testimony, however, especially from observers who were with President Hoover on his good-will tour, that Davis ranks as one of our ablest representatives in the countries to the south.

IN THE VIEW OF THE SURVEY we are now making of a capital route across Nicaragua, Davis' success in promoting good will for the United States at San Jose has pecuniary value. A portion of the route runs along the northern boundary of Costa Rica, and we have promised to satisfy her claims if we decide to dig the canal.

Mr. Hoover, on his pre-inauguration trip, made a first-hand study of our Latin American service. The promotion of Davis, if it comes, will carry, therefore, a gratifying significance: it will mean that Mr. Hoover personally saw the work of the young Missouri diplomatist and found it good.

THE FUTURE OF SIAM.

Siam, as all who have studied geography must know, is an incomparably happy country. It has no national debt, and its export trade is increasing. All of its heavy work is done by elephants, and its climate, while tropical, is not oppressive. Teakwood is abundant. The male inhabitants, as revealed in the moving picture, "Chang," are strong and gallant, and the female inhabitants are amiable in disposition and lovely in appearance. Every so often there is held the Festival of the Flowers, in which all the inhabitants, both male and female, paddle boats down the Menam River and strew the waves with petals. All in all, it would be hard to think of so pleasant a spot, and it is no wonder that even the tiger deigns to honor it with his regal presence.

Why, Mary Lee," Mrs. Gann exclaims to the interviewer, "I've never worked so hard in my life. You know how I love bridge, yet I haven't had a bridge game in weeks. And I made 32 calls yesterday afternoon!"

IN HARD-BOILED NEW YORK.

Ernest Barber, a young ex-student of the University of Virginia, after going without food for three days, fell to the sidewalk at Broadway and Eighty-eighth street, New York City. The inevitable crowd collected, to hear Barber murmur that he was hungry. A moment later he was supplied with five sandwiches, milk and coffee which a bystander had obtained in a nearby restaurant. The young man ate and again collapsed. An ambulance appeared and a physician, after making a hurried examination, announced Barber was starving. The spectators reached into their pockets and made up a purse of $100 for him. A woman, passing by in her automobile, promising Barber a night's lodging and fare back to his home, drove him away. All this in hard-boiled New York City, on that famous street, Broadway, which is glorified in romantic fiction for everything except the milk of human kindness.

THE SLIPPING MENCKEN.

Mr. Mencken, in his American Mercury, entertainingly scraps all the peace pacts and relegates Mr. Kellogg, ostensible inventor of the pact that bears his name, to a footnote in the history "of this great age in which we live." As the Baltimore savant sees it, "Disarmament treaties, no matter how much backslapping goes with them, are simply schemes to reduce the cost of maintaining the balance of power."

Were that the only claim to be filed for them would they not be worth while? If the military budget of the nations could be whittled down from billions to millions, would not the consequent relief in taxation mean a great deal to people everywhere? President Hoover thinks so. Prime Minister MacDonald thinks so. Premier Briand thinks so. Indeed, every body capable of thinking at all knows so.

The balance of power, to be sure, hasn't been a glowing success as a preventive of war. Even so, an inexpensive balance of power is obviously preferable to a drunken-sailor parity which is no more effective in keeping the peace. If he is to be gold-bricked anyway the sensible man will choose to have his pocket picked rather than see his automobile driven away by a robber Government that has blown his safe.

Instead of a balance of power on any scale, Mr. Mencken suggests the Pax Romana plan. He would like the United States repeat the historical role of its economic prototype, which permitted no fighting at all; which stepped in between the turbulent nations, cracked their heads or spanked them and—whatever discipline was needed—convinced them they had better be good. Uncle Sam, we are told, has the men, material and money thus to serve the world in loco parentis.

Dr. Mencken is slipping. He used to be a Tory, nimbly in step and gayly in harmony with the statesmanship of Palmerston—"the last candle of the eighteenth century." Now he has gone loping back to Augustan Rome.

MR. VAUCLAIN AND LADY LUCK.

In 1919 Samuel M. Vauclain played a long shot. The newly born Polish republic was badly in need of locomotives, and had no money to pay for them. At the same time, with the slowing up of industry after the war, the Baldwin Locomotive Works needed contracts to keep its plants in operation. Mr. Vauclain, as president, agreed to furnish Poland with locomotives to the value of $6,965,000, the money to be repaid in 10 years. Mr. Vauclain's associates, to put it mildly, were dubious. They advised against the project. Perhaps, if the truth were known, they pleaded with Mr. Vauclain to change his mind. He was adamant.

Ten years have rolled around and the other day Poland handed the Baldwin treasurer a check for $95,000, representing the final payment of the debt. And so it is that Mr. Vauclain's desk is banked with flowers and such newspapers as the New York Times say on their front pages: "Mr. Vauclain's judgment has been vindicated." Far be it from us to introduce a sour note into this pretty scene. But, after all, wasn't the judgment of Mr. Vauclain's associates really better than his own? Mr. Vauclain couldn't know that Poland would still exist in 1929, or that it would be able to pay the debt. He was, we repeat, taking a long shot, considering the unsettled condition of Europe at that time, and the precarious position of the struggling young nation of Poland.

In that transaction, Lady Luck was rooting for her fair-haired boy Samuel. Nor do we say it in any derogatory sense whatever. The point is that the difference between captains of industry and obscure men is frequently to be accounted for by the caprices of that jade. There have been few great careers in which fortune, chance, luck, "the breaks," or whatever name may be applied to that intangible element, is not discernible as an important, if not a controlling factor.

IN THE VIEW OF THE SURVEY we are now making of a capital route across Nicaragua, Davis' success in promoting good will for the United States at San Jose has pecuniary value. A portion of the route runs along the northern boundary of Costa Rica, and we have promised to satisfy her claims if we decide to dig the canal.

Mr. Hoover, on his pre-inauguration trip, made a first-hand study of our Latin American service. The promotion of Davis, if it comes, will carry, therefore, a gratifying significance: it will mean that Mr. Hoover personally saw the work of the young Missouri diplomatist and found it good.

ANOTHER MISSOURI DAVIS.

A report from Washington that President Hoover contemplated an extensive shake-up in the Latin-American diplomatic service includes the item that Roy T. Davis of Missouri is slated for promotion. Davis, for the last seven years, has been Minister to Costa Rica. It is believed that if he is not made an Ambassador he will at least be given a more important assignment in the ministerial grade.

Davis is not what is known as a "career man" in diplomacy. He went into it by the old-fashioned political route. There is abundant testimony, however, especially from observers who were with President Hoover on his good-will tour, that Davis ranks as one of our ablest representatives in the countries to the south.

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Sing Cuckoo

JOHN QUITOKE. By C. E. Soggins (Bonne-Merrill.) It is more than ordinarily well-written summer novel quite properly reverses the order of romance in real life as commonly reported by the press. Here the romance begins with a bullfight and ends with a wedding, whereas in real life it would seem, according to the news, romances begin with a wedding and end with a dog fight.

The quixotic hero, John, is a suky young college man from Texas and the scene of his operations is in the vicinity of Valencia, Spain.

John goes to a bullfight, and there he sees a pretty girl. In real life, John might see a thousand pretty girls without serious damage to his mental health. But this is a summer romance and, quite properly, John goes absolutely cuckoo. He takes after the girl, steaming and bubbling with true love, overtakes her at the railway station, buys a ticket and gets aboard in the nick of time.

While John is cooling off a bit, for by this time he certainly needs water in his radiator—and getting back his wind, the reader has the opportunity to observe that Elena de Atla (for it is she) is indeed a pip-pip. One look at them dark orbs, and one glance at their ruby lips, and even the reader goes a bit cuckoo—enough, at least, to stay with the highly combustible couple to the end. Which isn't long, for you've got to give it to him—John is a fast and willing worker.

It develops that Elena is running away from her haughty aristocratic papa who is about to wed her to one whom she can never, never love. In an old castle among the hills lives her grandfather, and there she seeks asylum. Asylum is right, for everybody in that neighborhood is cuckoo, too, for one reason or another. John arrives at the castle and has already won Elena's heart, when up comes papa—and the reader can see at once that he, too, is rather more than moderately cuckoo himself. Then it's noble young democratic manhood against the effete aristocracy, the latter naturally going down for the count.

Wishing to avoid the making of any further trouble, John, after matching a fond kiss from them white lips, departs. But that night he returns to the castle just in time

Hollywood Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2. This is a strange city of strange people that has no equal in social remoteness from the rest of the world. It genefacts solely on the movie and its people. The humble are completely wrapped up in the dreams of its great. Nothing matters.

I have often wondered if cinema barons half appreciated the stimulating quality of this community in inspiring their players. It is blah—blah, it is spurring blah. The screen, as the stage, needs fodder for inordinate vanity. And it is fed with a gusto.

In the eyes of Hollywood, it does do no wrong. They will take the cudgel for those who have stepped from high pedestals at any time of day or night. I have frequently watched the most famous actors and actresses pass along Broadway without a hand waving.

Probably 20 movie stars pass along a given block of Hollywood Boulevard to one star who dances along a given block of Broadway. And yet each one out here will galvanize the block into an electrical mass. Clerks will leave customers to rush to the doors, and his classmates gave him the "Breeze." To his duties at the movies he has brought that he is still surprisingly good for work.

His physique is strangely thin. The powerful torso and legs has more than one mistaken for his chief popularity among Washington men and officials that is parallel. Once a man himself, he knows what he has taken the place of the mythical White Horse. Daily he holds a press conference at the White House and imparts what information

ST. LOUIS POET DEAD

MRS. EMILE R. PAILOU,
ST. LOUIS POET, DIES

Succumbs After Operation Made Necessary by Injuries in Auto Accident.

The funeral of Mrs. Emile R. Paillou, 4003 Botanical Avenue, St. Louis clubwoman, writer and wartime worker who died Wednesday at St. Anthony's Hospital, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at an undertaking establishment at 1905 South Grand boulevard. She was 56 years old.

Death was due to peritonitis resulting from an operation performed Monday evening. The operation was made necessary by injuries suffered in an automobile accident in May, 1926, according to her son, Adrain B. Paillou. A friend, Mrs. Sarah Wickenden, wife of Fred J. Wickenden, 5915 Chase Avenue, was killed in the accident.

Mrs. Paillou, who was active until she was stricken Monday morning, has written numerous poems under the pen name of Francisca Flu. Her "Pageant of Peace" was performed by 2000 school children in Tower Grove Park in 1915 and a play, "The Kingdom of Callaway," has been in 15 amateur presentations in St. Louis.

During the World War, Mrs. Paillou was chairman of one of the local Red Cross chapters and was the first woman speaker in behalf of the Liberty loans. She also was secretary of a local French war orphans' aid organization and for a time secretary of the Seventh District Conservation Committee of Missouri.

Her husband, Dr. Emile R. Paillou, and another son, Chief Gunner's Mate Russell X. Paillou at Mare Island, also survive. Interment will be at Los Angeles, Cal.

MUENCH PREPARING TO FIGHT
DEPORTATION OF MONGOOSES

City Counselor Says He Will Aid Zoological Board in Opposing U. S. Order.

City Counselor Muench today began a study of the law applicable to mongooses, specifically such mongooses whose existence at the zoo is imperiled by threats of Federal authorities to send them back to India. Muench is preparing to offer legal assistance in the efforts of the St. Louis Zoological Board to keep the mongooses here.

Upon hearing of a letter received yesterday by George E. Dlecknian, president of the Board, from the Department of Agriculture, stating that it had no "discretion" in the matter, which must be handled by Customs authorities, Muench indicated that a ruling to deport them might lead to the deportation of some of the other animals.

"Because the mongooses will kill chickens when snakes are not available they are excluded from the United States," he said, "but the ones at the zoo are harmless in captivity and there is no danger of propagation since they are males. If such deportation rules are followed we will soon have orders to deport or kill lions, tigers, wolves and snakes in our zoological gardens."

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Collection of Recipes Especially Suited to Summer Meal Planning.

Instead of the usual roast on Sunday, we are using a planked steak this week. The festive and "professional" appearance of this dish make an immediate appeal to the appetite. The fact that it is an excellent example of a "one-plate" meal gives it value in the eyes of the efficient housewife.

Many of the vegetables can be prepared on Saturday so that very little time need be spent in preparation on Sunday.

One of the attractions of a planked steak is the variety of vegetables served with it, and this may be large or small. Stuffed baked tomatoes or peppers, shredded string beans, julienne carrots, a border of mashed potatoes and a few broiled mushrooms for garnish are one good combination. One tomato or pepper should be planned for each portion, and if the plank is not large enough to hold enough of the vegetables, extra supplies may be passed.

A fruit cup, clear soup or a slice of melon makes a good beginning for a planked steak meal; the salad must be plain, crisp.

Fresh Apricot Cream.

Use fresh or canned fruit for this. Cut a dozen ripe apricots in half, remove the pits and rub the fruit through a sieve to make a pulp. Sweeten to taste with powdered sugar and add the juice of half a lemon. Whip one-half pint of heavy cream until stiff, fold in the stiffly beaten white of one egg, and one-half cup of top milk. Next stir in one tablespoon of gelatin that has been soaked in three tablespoons of cold water and dissolved over hot water. When well mixed add the apricots, folding them in. Pour into the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze for three hours; or pour into a quart mold and bury in equal parts of crushed ice and ice cream salt for four hours.

Vegetable Cocktail.

Make a cocktail sauce by mixing together one-half cup of catsup, one-third cup of chili-sauce, one tablespoon horseradish, one tablespoon of tarragon or cider vinegar.

one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Chill thoroughly.

For the cocktail allow for each portion three asparagus tips, one-half a small tomato, four carrot balls, two or three mushrooms and a small spoonful of string beans that have been cooked whole. Arrange these on tiny lettuce leaves on a cold plate around a small glass of the sauce. The carrots, asparagus, beans and mushrooms must be cooked and chilled; the tomato peeled, chilled and cut in quarters or eighths.

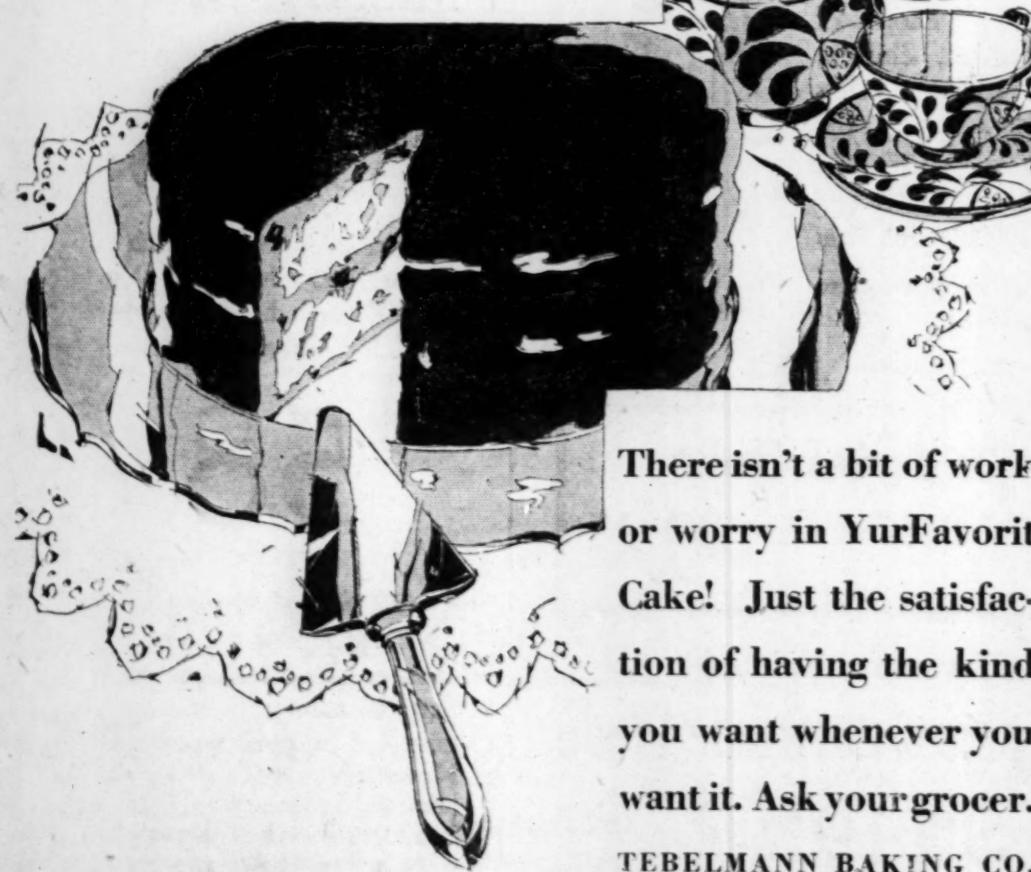

Fresh Plum Cake.

Use the large tart blue or red plums. Cut them in half and cover the bottom of a shallow cake pan with the plums, cut side up and as close together as possible. Sprinkle with one-third to one-half cup of sugar. Mix one-half cup of sugar and one-fourth cup of shortening to a soft cream, add one egg and beat. Stir in one-half cup of milk, and then add one and one-half cups of flour sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat until smooth, pour over the plums and bake in a hot oven for 35 minutes. Cool slightly and serve warm with the following sauce:

A SUMMERTIME MENU FOR A DAINTY MEAL

For a Formal Dinner Party Serve Food That Tempts
the Appetite.

The time is a warm, sticky night in August, and the scene a dining room ready for a dinner party. The table is spread with a snowy white cloth, and the soft gleam of silver and pale green glass produces an immediate feeling of coolness. Tall, pale green candles in silver holders shed a soft light; a silver bowl filled with white phlox and maidhair fern occupies the center of the table. The stage is set for an enjoyable and attractive meal. Entertaining planned with an eye to such details marks one's success as a hostess.

Menu.
Honey-dew cocktail
Olives Stuffed celery
Chicken mousse
Potato chips Chilled asparagus
Peach shortcake Demi-tasse

The menu that is ideally planned for a hot night must appeal to the eye as well as tempt the appetite. Attractive table settings produce the initial effect, and that must be followed up by foods that carry it along.

In this case the first course is a fruit cup composed of chilled balls cut from honey-dew melon sprinkled with lemon juice and finely chopped mint. They are served in long stemmed sherbet cups of clear, pale green glass placed on glass plates, and may be in place when dinner is announced. Olives in a bowl of cracked ice, and small crisp sticks of celery stuffed with cream cheese that has been mixed with minced parsley are served as relishes.

The main course is a chicken mousse shaped in individual molds and served with lettuce.

Shortcakes make a good dessert and demitasse provides a fitting end to a perfect meal.

To make the chicken mousse for eight people use a four-pound chicken boiled slowly until tender. Cut the meat from the bones and put through the meat grinder using the finest knife. There should be three cups of finely ground chicken, season with salt and pepper.

Soak three tablespoons of gelatin in one-half cup of the chicken stock for 10 minutes, then dissolve over boiling water. Whip one cup of heavy cream until stiff and season with salt and one teaspoon of lemon juice, fold in the gelatin, cover with a cloth and chill until the stiff beaten whites of two eggs.

Cool quickly until beginning to thicken, then add the chicken and continue folding the mixture over and over until stiff enough to nearly hold its shape.

Decorate small molds with strips of green pepper that have been scalloped with boiling water and with circles cut from stuffed olives. Fill with the chicken mixture and set aside for several hours to chill and stiffen.

Turn out on crisp lettuce and garnish with tiny sweet pickled gherkins.

Arrange chilled cooked asparagus in bundles that are slipped through a ring of green pepper. Marinate in French dressing for 20 minutes before serving.

Make the peach shortcake from rounds of sponge cake, sliced fresh peaches and cream whipped and sweetened. Or if desired, place vanilla ice cream and crushed peaches between two layers of sponge cake, garnish with a little whipped cream and sliced peaches.

SALAD A LA TAFT IS A REAL DE LUXE SALAD
While the Food Combination Is Not New to Cookery, the Name Is.

Now we may have the pleasure of making a new dish which is called "Salad a la Taft."

While no explanations accompany the new delicacy, it is reasonable to suppose that the salad has been honored with the name of former President Taft, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

To make this epicurean delicacy, take six large tomatoes, three-fourths cup apples, one-half cup celery, one-fourth cup green pepper, one-half cup walnut meats, broken in small pieces, one cup cooked breast of chicken, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, mayonnaise, one bunch watercress, one head lettuce, radish roses and olives.

Scoop out centers from tomatoes, fill with mixture of chopped apples, celery, green pepper, nuts and chicken, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Place on bed of lettuce and watercress. Garnish with radish flowers and leaves made of olives.

A TASTY BREAD PUDDING FOR THE FAMILY DINNER
Few Desserts Are More Satisfying
Than a Well-Made Bread Pudding.

A dainty pudding is made with three-fourth cup water, three cups crated bread crumbs, three eggs, one cup seeded raisins, one orange, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter and one teaspoon baking powder.

Add water to crumbs and let stand five minutes. Separate eggs and add beaten yolks to bread crumbs with raisins, grated rind and juice of orange, salt, sugar and butter and mix all together thoroughly.

Beat egg whites until frothy, add

FAMILY PICNIC KIT AND ITS CONTENTS

Vacation Days Tempt Families to Spend Saturday in the Open Spaces.

Somebody desires to know what the family picnic kit should contain.

Presupposing that the family is given to spending the week-end holidays, Saturday and Sunday, in the park, or the nearby country resorts or at the convenient river beaches, suggests that the eats taken on these family picnics must be more hearty and more wholesome than the good things generally provided for occasional excursions of the kind.

A rather inclusive list of picnic necessities will be found in the appended list which may be revised to suit the particular purpose of individual outing parties.

1. Table cover and napkins, paper or cloth.

2. Plates, paper or light enamel.

3. Cups, for cold drinks; enamel or china for coffee or tea.

4. Knives, forks and spoons, tin, aluminum, paper or silver.

5. Bread and meat knife.

6. Salt, pepper and sugar in paper cartons.

7. Bread, wrapped in wax paper.

8. Butter, in a jar.

9. Pickles and olives, in a jar.

10. Fruit, in box, wax paper lined.

11. Lettuce and tomatoes, wrapped in wet towel and brown paper.

12. Sweetened lemon juice, in a bottle, to be diluted.

13. Hot coffee in Thermos bottle. Cream in separate bottle.

The occasional picnic generally calls for an attractive type of luncheon rather than for the wholesome type. However, when families make a practice of spending most of the vacation week-end holidays in the open, it is the better part of wisdom to vary the type of food provided for the different occasions by preparing menus suitable for hearty luncheons, cooked foods dinner, meatless suppers and luncheons both style.

Several suggestions along these lines follow:

Dinner Menu.

Baked ham, carried whole in kettle.

Meat loaf, carried in pan, unsliced.

FRESH RASPBERRY JAM

Use This Recipe Before the Berry Season Has Passed Away.

Raspberry jam is always a favorite. It is best made with the addition of commercial pectin or combined with currants.

For the plain raspberry jam, mash about three pints of ripe berries or enough to make three cupfuls. Add six cupfuls of sugar and mix thoroughly. Stir over a hot fire until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly for one minute. Add one-half cup liquid pectin and boil for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and pour into sterilized jelly glasses. Makes about six glasses. Cover with melted paraffine.

Urging A New-Day Bread For Your Children...

To Build Them Up and Bring New Vigor

BY ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

HERE, Madam, is that remarkable new-day bread so many mothers are changing to. It's called "Wonder Bread."

It is, you will find, utterly different from any other bread you can buy. It represents months and months of research and the expenditure of $6,000,000.

Two years ago we placed it on the market.

At that time bakery experts told us it would cost too much to make. They pointed out that our recipe called for ingredients that cost $1,000,000 extra to buy. And so they prophesied tremendous losses.

But we maintained that women would note the difference instantly. We gambled on their judgment . . . and we won.

Today Wonder Bread is bought by 10,000,000 women. It is, without question, the largest-selling bread in America.

burns up body tissues. Unless these tissues are replaced, "Carbohydrate Starvation" sets in. Listlessness is what you see.

Wonder Bread, being rich in carbohydrates, combats this condition remarkably.

When digested, it gives off heat in the form of energy exactly as coal gives off heat. It helps establish that vital "energy reserve." Thus your child often discovers a wonderful new zest for play.

Knowing these benefits, dietitians are urging its use at every meal. And millions of mothers, finding "balanced diet" made easy, now serve it in their homes.

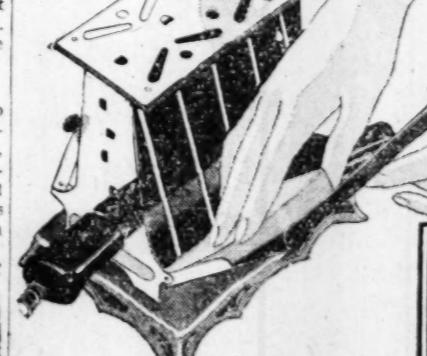

Its Famous Flavor

These unusual health advantages, please remember, come to you in a superlatively delicious food. And at no extra cost.

You get them in a bread judged by the foremost experts in the country the most deliciously flavored bread ever baked. Which makes it the more remarkable.

How We Make It

To make Wonder Bread we employ matchless chefs. We use a specially milled

SEVEN QUICK FACTS About Wonder Bread

2. Toasts quickly to an even, golden brown.

4. Made of specially milled short patent flour—heart of the wheat berry.
5. Double the usual quantity of milk. Pasteurized.
6. All ingredients are tested for quality, purity and nutritive value.
7. At your grocer's, oven-fresh in the morning and afternoon.

ASPIC MEAT DISHES IDEAL FOR SUMMER

Rather Difficult to Prepare but Well Worth the Time and Trouble.

Few hot weather foods are more attractive than aspic meat dishes. The basis of such dishes is a jelly made with gelatine.

The meat incorporated in the aspic is generally of the lighter type such as fowl, veal, canned seafoods and other canned products. The following recipes will offer a wide variety of choices for serving a most seasonal and palatable food.

Jellied Chicken Pie.

Cut a tender chicken into neat pieces free from bone and with as little skin as possible. Season it with salt, pepper, powdered mace, paprika and chopped parsley; add one-half pint of water cut into small pieces, and mix together.

Take a dish just large enough to hold the meat, rinse it out with cold water and leave it wet. Then garnish the bottom of the dish with sections of hard-cooked eggs, chopped pickles and parsley. Fill up with the chicken mixture; press the meat well down, making it level with the top of the dish. Pour in one-half cup rich white stock, or just enough to moisten the meat.

Cover the pie with pastry and bake in a moderate oven until the chicken is tender when it is tested with a fork.

When ready remove the pie from the oven and pour in as much rich stock as the pie will hold. If the stock is not stiff enough a little relatine must first be dissolved in it. Then set the pie away until it is quite cold.

At serving time remove the pastry from the top, place it upside down on a clean dish and turn the jellied chicken carefully out on top. Garnish round the sides of the pie with parsley and chopped aspic jelly.

Afternoon Tea Cookies.

Take one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, grated rind of one-half orange, one tablespoon lemon juice, two egg yolks, one egg white, two cups pastry flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one-half cup candied cherries and one-half cup pistachio nuts.

Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and cream again. Add grated orange rind with lemon juice and eggs; beat well. Fold in pastry flour sifted with soda.

Chill overnight. In morning

Aspic Salad in Aspic.

Take two cups cooked meat, one cup medium white sauce, two tablespoons Indian relish, one cup whipping cream, two hard-cooked eggs, two tablespoons gelatin, four tablespoons cold water, one cup stock, vegetable or meat, one cup cucumber, washed and diced.

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Dissolve with hot stock; add white sauce, stir well and set aside till thick like molasses. Add the finely chopped egg, meat, cucumber and relish. Stir till well mixed and fold in whipped cream. Turn into individual molds; serve as main dish with baked potatoes and a salad.

Ham Mousse.

Two cups minced cold ham, one-half cup cream, one-fourth cup minced celery, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons minced water and one-eighth teaspoon gelatin.

Soak gelatin in the cold water five minutes and dissolve over boiling water. Add ham, celery, paprika and parsley and mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Put into individual molds (or one large mold) which have been dipped in cold water. Chill thoroughly. Turn out on a bed of crisp lettuce or watercress. Garnish with green pepper and pliminto.

Buttered Carrots.

Wash and brush carrots thoroughly; drop into boiling water and cook about 20 minutes or until tender. Serve with butter, pepper and salt. Garnish with parsley.

REFRESH ALL GUESTS WITH ICED DRINKS

Present - Day Custom Suggests Serving Refreshing Drinks to Visitors.

These warm summer days most housewives find it convenient to have a supply of bottled beverages such as grape juice, ginger ale, fruit beverages, soda water, root beer and other beverages in the refrigerator for use when expected or unexpected guests arrive.

This is a wise precaution, for it is becoming more and more the vogue to offer refreshments to all callers who may drop in on us at home on these hot summer days.

It is a delightful custom, too, for nothing is more refreshing and more appreciated in warm weather than a cool iced drink.

Something in the way of an attractive cookie or small cake is generally served with the cold drink. These cakes may be of the most simple type.

In fact there could be nothing more acceptable to serve on such occasions than the fancy crackers, wafers and cakes which may be purchased in small cartons at all grocery and chain stores.

If a preference is had for home-made cookies, the following recipes will be found most satisfying and easily made.

Afternoon Tea Cookies.

Take one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, grated rind of one-half orange, one tablespoon lemon juice, two egg yolks, one egg white, two cups pastry flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one-half cup candied cherries and one-half cup pistachio nuts.

Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and cream again. Add grated orange rind with lemon juice and eggs; beat well. Fold in pastry flour sifted with soda.

Chill overnight. In morning roll thin, cut into fancy shapes, brush over with egg white and sprinkle with chopped cherries and nuts. Bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

Special Sauce.
Work one-fourth cup of butter and one cup of powdered sugar to a soft cream. Add the yolk of an egg and beat until smooth and creamy. Add one-half cup more of sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla and when well blended, fold in one-half cup of whipped cream. Serve very cold.

Marmalade Sandwiches.
Spread thinly sliced bread with cream cheese beaten smooth and creamy. Put together with marmalade.

TASTY MEAT DISHES FOR HOT WEATHER

Appetizing Light Foods Are Especially Relished in Summertime.

Housewives, in summertime, are generally at their wit's end when they begin to think about planning the dinner menu because the family appetite seems to crave a change every day. Here are several meat dishes that will be acceptable on such occasions.

Luncheon Sweetbreads.

Parboil a sweetbread, split and cut in pieces shaped like a cutlet, or cut in circular pieces. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in bread crumbs, and saute in butter. Arrange on platter and serve with tomato sauce.

Baked Slice of Ham.

Rub one-half cup sugar into the ham. Sprinkle with cloves. Place in baking pan and surround with apple peeled, cored and sliced in half cross-wise. Sprinkle sugar over the apples, add the water to the pan and bake until tender (about 45 minutes). Serve on hot platter garnished with crepe or parsley.

Meat and Rice Casserole.

Line a casserole, slightly greased, with cooked rice. Fill the center with two cups cold, finely chopped, cooked meat, highly seasoned with salt, pepper, cayenne, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice, then add one egg slightly beaten, and enough hot water or stock to moisten. Cover meat with rice and bake 45 minutes in slow oven.

Chicken Salad.

Cut cold boiled chicken into small cubes; put them in a bowl and to each quart allow a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar, a saltspoonful of black pepper; mix and stand aside until cold. Cut two-thirds as much white celery into bits of the same size and stand it in a cold place until mixing time.

At serving time mix the celery and chicken, cover thoroughly with mayonnaise, serve on lettuce leaves, garnish with olives, capers, and hard-boiled eggs.

SAUCE FOR ICE CREAM

An Easy Way to Dress Up Plain Vanilla Ice Cream.

Pineapple marshmallow sauce is fascinating to serve over ice cream.
Make it with one cup shredded pineapple, either fresh or canned, one-half cup sugar, and 12 marshmallows.

Cook pineapple and sugar five minutes; add marshmallows, stirring continuously and when soft pour over ice cream. This sauce may be served either hot or cold.

Watermelon Ice.

This is especially refreshing for a hot day; it may be packed in a thermos jar or container and will prove a popular picnic dessert. Use a small perfectly ripe watermelon, cut in pieces, remove the seeds and rind and chop the pink pulp quite fine. Add one cup of sugar for each four cups of chopped pulp and freeze the mixture to a mush, then add one stiffly beaten egg white for each four cups of pulp and continue freezing the mixture until stiff. Garnish with sprigs of fresh mint.

How Super Suds is different

Super Suds is not a chip. It is soap in beads. It is made by spraying melted soap from huge towers. In falling, the soap divides into millions of fairy bubbles, 4 times thinner than any chip or flake.
So tissue thin that the instant you pour on water you have suds.

And not just instant top suds. But instant underwater suds as well. Just as the test below at right shows you. Active below-the-surface suds that wash dishes clean with lightning speed because they work down below the water where real cleaning must be done. Only an instant dissolving soap can give you instant underwater suds.

boiled potatoes. Add to the potato, one cucumber, a bunch of scallions, a half bunch of radishes, one small bottle of stuffed olives, one-half bottle of sweet gherkins, one or two cold, cooked beets all sliced.
Add two cold hard boiled eggs, season well with salt, pepper and

THREE NEW PRINCIPALS FOR MUNICIPAL OPERA

Marguerita Sylva, Joyce White and Greek Evans Engaged.

Three new principals and additional choristers have been added to the Municipal Opera Company for the closing weeks of the season, it was announced today by the opera management.

Miss Joyce White, who was seen here last February in Ziegfeld's production of "Rio Rita," will be introduced to the open-air audience the week of Aug. 11 in an ingenue role in "Babes in Toyland."

Miss Marguerita Sylva, who appeared here as the star of Lehar's "Gypsy Love" at the old Olympic Theater, and Greek Evans, who sang with the Municipal Opera Company in "Il Traviatore" three summers ago, have been employed for roles in "Golden Dawn," which will close the program in the Forest Park auditorium.

For "The Vagabond King," which opens next Monday the opera chorus has been increased to 120 voices. Miss Carolyn Thomson will sing the role of Lady Katherine which she created in the original New York production.

Miss Alice Mackenzie and Miss Eva Clark, who resigned from the Opera cast, will fill engagements the week of Aug. 10. Miss Mackenzie at the St. Louis Theater and Miss Clark at the Fox.

Resigns From Insurance Division. JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 2.—M. L. Francis of Saline County, an attaché of the State Insurance Department in charge of the revenue and license division, has resigned. He is a former newspaper man and has been active in State politics.

digious propaganda in Great Britain, but also recognition by the Soviet of its pre-war debts to this country, contracted under the Czarist government. In this claim the work of Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is seen.

The Russian commercial treaty negotiated by the last Labor government in 1924, providing for extension of credits to Russia without exacting of a Russian promise to pay Russia's old debts, caused the fall of MacDonald's first cabinet five years ago. The change of front is remarkable, especially in view of the pledges given by MacDonald on the stump in the last election campaign that relations with Russia would be immediately restored. This also was part of the officially adopted Labor party program.

The present deadlock, while it is warmly welcomed by the Conservative and most of the Liberal press, is expected to alienate Labor's left wing. It marks the extreme caution of Premier MacDonald. This move it is understood, will be declared in Left quarters to be the result of MacDonald's pro-American policies and his desire to stand well with Washington before the impending naval negotiations. There probably is no ground for this suggestion, but it will be widely accepted.

Foreign Office's Stand.

In semi-official quarters it is emphasized that resumption of relations with Russia is intended. It is hinted that the present stand of the Foreign Office is due to the insistence of the law officers of the Crown that certain legal points be cleared up.

The Russian note reporting Dovgalevsky's conversation says that Henderson told the Soviet Ambassador that he desired to "set up the necessary machinery for dealing with such outstanding questions as debt claims, trade, etc."

The Russian attitude is that Russia's claims against Great Britain for financing the White armies in Russia during the civil war and thus causing great damage to life and property should be offset England's commercial claims. Until yesterday this was deemed to be the attitude of the Labor party.

Soviet's Version of Why Negotiations Were Broke Off.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World and Daily Mirror.)

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—Flat refusal of Great Britain to agree to immediate exchange of diplomatic representatives between London and Moscow has resulted in a breakdown of the negotiations which have been in progress between Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, and Valerian Dovgalevsky, Soviet Ambassador to Paris, it was announced yesterday by the Foreign Office here yesterday.

Dovgalevsky, it is said, told Henderson at their first meeting in London that the soviet considers an immediate exchange of diplomats should take place before all the controversial questions between the two Governments are discussed. Henderson replied that this would be impossible. The British Foreign Secretary, however, repeated the British offer that the soviet should, not later than Aug. 14, send a delegation to London to negotiate differences.

The soviet envoy, considering his post in Paris, handed Henderson before his departure the official reply of the soviet, which virtually calls off negotiations for the time being. In delivering the note, Dovgalevsky explained that he was without instructions from the president of the Central Executive Committee of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and that even the Soviet Foreign Office was not in a position to negotiate the new British offer, which was not mentioned in the British note of July 17, transmitted to Moscow through Norwegian diplomatic channels. The soviet reply delivered by Dovgalevsky says the soviet Government has done everything toward restoration of trade and diplomatic relations. It stated that

Henderson's announcement of the British Government's firm determination not to recognize the soviet union shows that "Great Britain does not want, or is in a position to agree to resumption of relations. Otherwise the British Government would not stubbornly insist upon preliminary session of that body.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 2.—

Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theater magnate, yesterday was held for trial on a second degree murder charge growing out of an automobile collision in which Joe Rokemont was killed. The trial date was not set.

cided to offer any defense testimonies at her preliminary hearing after a motion for a dismissal had been denied.

Three policemen testified that Mrs. Pantages was intoxicated at the time of the collision and that she had used abusive language.

CADETS TO HOLD FINAL REVIEW TOMORROW

Students at Barracks to Get Awards and Dedicate
Camp Skinker.

Civilian soldiers who for more than three weeks have practiced squad, platoon and company formations and who have learned to shoot the U. S. Army rifle, will march tomorrow in formal review for the last time before the closing of Camp Skinker next Tuesday.

Maj.-Gen. Frank B. Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps Area, with headquarters in Chicago, will review the civilian army of 1600 tomorrow as it swings down the parade ground behind the United States Sixth Infantry band, composed entirely of regulars.

Both Gen. Parker and Brigadier-General G. H. Estes, commandant of the barracks, will speak to the student soldiers following the review at 9:30 o'clock. Then the troops will be marched to the front of the grand stand, where 400 medals and trophies for merit will be awarded.

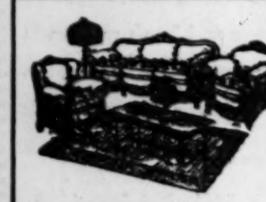

There also will be formal services, dedicating the camp and honoring Capt. Skinker, St. Louisan, who was killed in action in the World War. Military training for the cadets virtually ends with tomorrow's program. On Monday the civilian doughboys will begin to turn in their equipment and on Tuesday they will depart for their homes.

This morning 40 fourth-year cadets, about to receive commissions as Second Lieutenants, went on the pistol range and fired at targets with the 45-caliber army automatic at 15 and 25 yards. Sixth Infantry officers stood by to coach the cadets in the precise movements of the "drop."

The 40 first year men, before being commissioned, will have to serve a year either in an enlisted reserve or regular outfit. Thereafter, they may take their examinations.

Yesterday, fresh from the parade ground, the cadets passed into the camp theater and watched the clockwork maneuvers of West Point cadets on the parade grounds, as caught by the movie cameras. The film, according to officers, worked wonders in improving the civilian battalions. When the last scene had been shown, the soldiers again marched to the parade ground, drilling for another hour and a half to polish off their movements in preparation for tomorrow's review.

For the Love of a Lady

By Jeffery Farnol

Chapter 35.

ANOTHER ROMANCE.

HELEN was awakened from her dreams and much-needed sleep by gasping, stifled sobs. Betty was weeping, crouched in chair beside the lattice. My lady, finding herself wide awake and thus cheated of her so desired rest, pounded her pillow.

"Crocodile!" cried she. "Will ye sob and rob me of my needed rest?"

"Oh, m-m-a-m!" sobbed Betty. "Oh, d-dearest my l-lady—my poor heart is breakin' all becos o' Mr. Pitt . . . And despit frightened I be, all becos ' Mr. G-Olderman—'"

"Wench—what d'ye mean?" demanded my lady.

For answer Betty proffered a tear-sodden, blotched and crumpled paper, wherein my lady read these words:

"Dear Betty forever fare well. This ended for I saw him last night a gory spectacle. Mr. Julian the dead walks all bloody of a night crying for vengeance and it is beyond me to bear that an an innocent party. Sir Richard was there also and ever a guilty face was his. And blood upon the face Mr. Julian's horrible to see and polluted at me no innocent as babe. So they question ask who you do it. You may swear not me but Sir Richard was the fatal hand and cannot deny same. I suspected and now am sure, now and ever and fare well to thy poor Tom."

"And good riddance, too!" nodded my lady. "So here, minx, here's the reward for peeping and prying! This wicked man teaches you treachery to your poor mistress, makes you try to betray me and now runs off and leaves you now begone!"

"Oh, but ma'm. I'll vow I never betrayed nobody. Oh, never! I only did as he made me and all for your ladyship's happiness."

"My happiness, girl? How pray?"

"Oh, ma'm, he adores the very show you walk in, the dust you trudges in—he—"

"Who, girl, who?"

"My lord, ma'm, the Viscount Brocksheir."

"That mincing fool!"

"Ah, my lady," begged Betty. "I meant no harm—pray be kind to poor heart-broken me . . ."

"Indeed," sighed my lady, softening. "I begin to think you more simple than wicked—now begone."

AND so, after some while, my lady descended to her solitary breakfast, and presently going forth into the private garden, there found the Duchess basking placidly beneath the cherry-tree.

"Well, meader?"

"No, aunt—everything is most hateful and most especially—myself."

"And that is the way of it, then?"

"Ah, it's poor, pitiful, miserable, hateful world, aunt!"

"Is he, my dear sour?"

Helen checked a sigh to stare.

"Is who—what?" she demanded.

"Richard—so he didn't kiss ye then last night—the blind fule that he is?"

My lady Helen lifted haughty chin in disdainful gesture, but the Duchess' quick eyes noted clearly rising flush in Helen's cheeks. Then suddenly my lady asked:

"But . . . but know you of last night?"

"Faith, my child, didn't I watch ye creep off to him?"

"Oh, since it seems you thus pry upon my actions, you shall know I . . . accompanied Sir Richard to the Old Mill, last night, in quest of letters from him for his by cousin, Mr. Julian."

"Ah? And did ye find it?"

"Och and did ye so? Well, well—what of it?"

"As I say, aunt, 'twas I found it!"

And you say my dear love, 'twas yourself found it?"

"'Twas I, dear aunt!" Here my lady hummed a snatch of song.

"Ah, shure, we dear angel," replied the Duchess. "There's time I yearn for the days we could go so easily across me knee."

"Oh, madam!" shuddered my lady, "you become merely shocking!"

Chinese Women Want Co-Education

CHINA'S womanhood has come out in favor of co-education. Nanking's national educational conference opposes it.

The Amalgamated Committee for the Upholding of Women's Rights demands that in education, as in all other things, there should be a standard of equality between men and women. An announcement of the women's committee says:

"Since the May movement there has been a general demand for equality between men and women, this being a subject which has been approved by all the people. At a meeting of the national educational conference, a resolution was passed opposing co-education in colleges and middle schools, and recommending the stoppage of the co-educational movement in China in all institutions in which the system has been introduced. News of this was received by the people, with considerable surprise and suspicion. Our women folk have been thrown into a state of alarm and anxiety."

"The purpose of introduction of co-education in China is to afford better educational facilities to women and to place their standard of education on a higher basis. The system has been in vogue several years and young men and young women have lived on terms of equality.

"Although it has been difficult to avoid certain evils, the results attained, on the whole, have been most satisfactory. The system therefore should not be ended now."

"In certain provinces boys and girls have been taught in separate schools. This should not be the case. The girls should have a chance of being educated just as much as the boys. The girls are quite as capable as the boys and they can well look after themselves."

"Telegrams have been sent throughout the country appealing for sympathy in this movement of 'fighting for a common principle.'

Peach Shortcake.

One cup flour, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons butter, enough milk to make it the thickness of cake batter. Bake for 15 minutes in one greased tin. Cool and then cover with sugared sliced peaches and top with sweetened whipped cream.

CORRECT THINGS FOR TRAVELING

Meditations of a Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

THE ONE-MAN HOME

It is foolish to say that the modern man has no domestic yearnings in his heart—that he is a rover with a restless foot, and automobile complex and no desire for the sweet home life.

Every unattached man, no matter how "bachelorized" he may seem, has his secret dreams and visions of the "Some Day" when he shall settle down with the Ideal Woman in the Perfect Home. The little domestic monarchy, in which HE shall rule, of course.

There are certain people that take great pleasure in dropping a line here and there. They are inclined to sow the seeds of discontent. They buzz into one ear and buzz into the next. They seem to gain the confidence of their hearers. In a little while the two friends are separated for good reason.

The gossip always remains cold and the soup always remains hot, and the roast never reaches the medium-done state, until he chooses to GET there.

Where somebody is always looking for his things, or his hat or his approval—and NOBODY else on imagination. They accomplish nothing except the destroying element.

The gossip is a dangerous person. It is not confined to women. Men are not unlike women when it comes to small talk. Small town men have more time for gossip than men in large cities. Perhaps their wives, overflow of gossip reaches them. The man or woman

THE LAW ON GOSSIP

By Dorothy Frooks.

Many friends have been estranged because of loose remarks. In court two women stood before the Judge telling their stories. One accused the other of having said something injurious to her reputation. The other said that this woman had made the remarks about her. The Judge asked the distributor of the gossip does not belong to this generation. Today women are busy. They are constructive and tolerant. They do not imperf themselves with the press session of a loose tongue. Men who are worth while never yield to any thing so petty as gossip.

Women should learn to differentiate between the true friend and the trouble maker. The person who carries tales certainly tells tales. The gossip always tries to step into a friendship supposedly based on understanding. The unfortunate part is that friendship supposedly based on understanding is so easily upset.

Good Health So Cheap And So Pleasant To Take

SHREDDED WHEAT

With all the bran of the whole wheat

Two biscuits with whole milk and some fruit, give energy for the hot days and are so easily digested and so full of nutriment—for breakfast or lunch.

We know exactly what she means. So does, any married woman doesn't feel herself and her hand. No matter how much care for him. Yet she will appreciate the occasional day or when she can be alone and just as she pleases.

It only human beings had such opposing passions about it. Probably there isn't any man doesn't like some of his wife's favorite dishes. We like puddings, for example, and Roast lamb stew with dumplings—all which are as anathema to him.

"You can have 'em," he often says, "it doesn't matter whether I eat 'em or not—I don't like eat 'em."

Nevertheless, we can't and we deliberately arrange meals, we know he detests too much work to serve two sets of food and quite the easiest, simplest solution is to encourage him to Adventures! Club dinners, as often, and then celebrate home by having some of the things we best like to eat. Many women do likewise!

HOW often, too, a husband's absence means a blessed freedom from the necessity of preparing a formal meal! Most of us eat picnics. It's when the way that a woman can dine from the refrigerator, or to some sandwiches and a mug to the end of the Point to the sunset's trailing clouds of glory.

Or perhaps "having a fine time" doesn't mean to a wife, reading in bed until she's half way, long after the husband would want her turned off. Or the vacation time may be the wild debauch sleeping an hour later in the morning, because it isn't necessary to fit breakfast to the 8:15 schedule.

The point we would make is this: no matter how companionable two persons are, how deeply in love, there are times when—if they have any individuality at all—they can find relief in being apart, and that invite the soul. But a happy marriage needs such periods, when neither partner need make an effort to please or to satisfy the other, to adjust or give up personal tastes and preferences, your's or mine, in love, you don't mind art of living side by side. But if that's the way you're honest and personality yourself, you like to take a long breath and out to take a long breath and then you're not here."

Twice as many women do likewise!

Why GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM Gives Greater Beauty

Summer Comfort for SICK

The Inside of Prohibition

by Mabel Walker Willebrandt

Among the health hints for the children during their vacation months, Dr. Barbara Beattie writes as follows in the August issue of "The Parents' Magazine":

"One of the sequels of diving is that children do not appreciate it.

Beholding all of which my lady Helen sighs for very sympathy and, turning away, wandered aimlessly across the wide lawn and thus spied a rough looking man who, new approaching, gave her a sealed letter, then staying for no questions, grinned and hurried away. So, breaking the seal, she saw this:

"Madam. Having discovered certain property of yours at the Old Mill, left in yr hurried flight therefrom, last night, T. O. begs to inform same shall be returned and no questions asked if yr

ladyship will call for same at the Gufford Arms to day at sunset.

Come alone, and do not fear.

T. OLD CRAFT.

Twice she read this through;

finally she hurried into the house and presently came forth almost furtively, and draped in hooded cloak.

(Copyright, 1928, Jeffery Farnol.)

Will Helen be entrapped by these villains? The answer is in Monday's chapter.

If there are pictures on the walls of the sickroom change these occasionally so the patient gets a different view.

A person who has been exposed to poison ivy should scrub his hands with soap and water as possible. Extreme care should be taken not to touch the face or any other part of the body with hands that have touched ivy, for it is in that way that the poison is spread. When it is not severe, it can be treated without the aid of a physician.

One of the best methods of treatment is to apply wet dressings of a strong solution of Epsom salts about four tablespoons to a pint of water.

These should be kept on almost constantly.

Another good household remedy is a saturated solution of boric acid, two teaspoonsfuls to the pint.

Too Many Cold Drinks.

After a spell of hot weather a great many of us wind up with a pretty smart pain in our stomachs and we wonder how it came about.

It is usually from the enormous amount of cold drinks and ice cream we consume in an effort to reduce the heat, and if these are given up in favor of hot soup or hot tea for a few days the pain will probably disappear.

Seeding Raisins

Perhaps the best method of freeing raisins from seeds is to put them in a bowl, cover with boiling water and let stand for two minutes. Drain, open the seeds and remove the seeds. They will come out easily without stickiness.

OF

By Marguerite M. Marshall

GLAD YOU'RE NOT HERE. TWENTY-EIGHT farmer's wives in La Salle County, Ind., have just returned to home and husband after the fortnight's vacation which they have made an annual event—sometimes they go to a hunting camp, this year they took a bus tour of the State. A good-weather correspondent of the Associated Press suggested that they all sent postcards to their husbands, inscribed: "Having a fine time. Glad you're not here." Many an affectionate wife knows that, if she were more truthful than tactful, she would send that identical message to her husband during their occasional separations.

The slender young woman with the chrysanthemum bob who lives across the boardwalk from us is as comradely and devoted wife as any. She is helpful neighbor. But of course she is not the husband's business trip which her husband starts in a week or so, her comment is: "My vacation's almost here. What she means, as all know, but sometimes weary wives understand, is that the time is coming when she can have meals at what moment and of what food she pleases; when her bungalow can function about her, instead of about a beloved man with long, irregular hours and strongly individual preferences; when she can take time off to read detective stories, sleep late in the morning and indulge in other pursuits of a blameless life.

We know exactly how she feels! So does any married woman who doesn't fool herself and her husband. No matter how much she cares for him. Yet she will appreciate the occasional day or week when she can be alone and do just as she pleases.

If only human beings had not such opposing passions about food! Probably there isn't any man who doesn't eat his wife's favorite dishes. We like snow pudding, for example, and Roast beef and boiled rice and lamb stew with dumplings—all of which are as anathemas to Himself. "You can have 'em," he offers nobly. "It doesn't matter whether I like 'em or not—I don't have to eat 'em."

Nevertheless, we can't and won't deliberately arrange meals which we know he detests. It's too much work to serve two sets of food—and quite the easiest, simplest solution is to encourage him to go to Adventures' Club dinners every so often, and then celebrate at home by having some of the things we best like to eat. How many women do likewise?

HOW often, too, a husband's absence means a blessed freedom from the necessity of preparing a formal meal! Most men eat picnics. It's when they're away that a woman can dine on a tray from the refrigerator, or take some sandwiches and a magazine to the end of the Point to watch the sunset's trailing clouds of glory.

Or perhaps "having a fine time—glad you're not here" means, for a wife, reading in bed until some wholly hour, long after the time her husband would want the light turned off. Or the vacation from him may be the wild debauch of sleeping an hour later in the morning, but if it isn't necessary to "miss breakfast" to the 8:18 schedule. The point we would make is this: no matter how companionable two persons are, how deeply in love, there are times when—if they have any individuality at all—they can find relief in being apart, to rest and invite the sun. Every happy marriage needs such rest periods, when neither partner need make an effort to please or serve the other, to adjust or give up personal tastes and preferences, to compromise. Most of the time, if you're in love, you don't mind—indeed you enjoy—practicing the art of living side by side. But now and then, if you're honest and a personality yourself, you like time out to take a long breath and BE yourself!

It therefore seems to us flying in the face of Providence for the woman who loves and tries her husband to raise objections when he wants to run away without her for a week-end of golf or fishing, for a dinner in town with the men at the office and eats at the fight afterward. To encourage such occasional excursions is far the wiser plan.

In the first place, the wife adopting it doesn't flatter her husband's egotism unduly by making him believe that she can't spend a happy moment without him. In the second place, her good-humored tolerance of his now-and-then absences keeps the yoke of command from galling him and makes him proud of her as a good sport. (He actually brags about her to other men, who must always be home for dinner if they don't want to start something!) Finally, she, as well as her husband, can find rest and refreshment when she has the house to herself. "Having a fine time—glad you're not here" need NOT mean lack of love, but simply a normal human being's wish to stand aside, momentarily, from even the happiest, most grateful human contact!

Splinters.

When a splinter gets under the nail and will not come out readily, a cold water bandage around the top of the finger will in time stop the splinter and prevent it from starting.

All Quiet on the Western Front By Erich Maria Remarque

Paul Baumer and his soldier comrades are at rest behind the front when they are ordered on a wiring party. It is black night; a thundering enemy bombardment forces them to take cover in a cemetery. Paul dives into a hole. He feels wood and cloth. It is an occupied coffin, ripped open by the shelling. Wounded he loses consciousness. Katinka shakes him crying: "Gas!"

CHAPTER VIII

GRAB for my gas-mask. Some distance from me there lies someone, I think of nothing but this: That fellow there must know: Gas—Gasas—

I call. I lean toward him, I swipe at him with the satchel, he doesn't see once again, again—he only ducks it, a recruit. I look at Kat, desperately. He has his mask ready—I pull it on, too, my helmet falls to one side, it slips over my face, I reach the man, his satchel is on the side nearest me. I seize the mask, pull it over his head, he understands. I let go and with a jump drop back into the shell-hole.

The dull thud of the gas-shells mingling with the crashes of the high explosives. A bell sounds between the explosions, gongs and metal clappers warning everyone—Gas—Gas—Gas.

Someone plumps down behind me, another. I wipe the goggles of my mask clear of the moist breath. It is Kat, Kropp, and someone else. All four of us lie there in heavy, watchful suspense, and breathe as lightly as possible.

These first minutes with the mask decide between life and death: is it tightly woven? I remember the awful sights in the hospital: the gas patients who in day-long suffocation cough their burnt lungs up in cloots.

Cautiously, the mouth applied to the valve, I breathe. The gas still creeps over the ground and sinks into all hollows. Like a big, soft jelly-fish it floats into our shell-hole and lolls there. Obviously I judge. Kat, it is better to crawl out and lie on top than to stay here where the gas collects most. But we don't get as far as that; a second bombardment begins. It is no longer as though the shells roared; it is the earth itself raging.

With a crash something black bears down on us. It lands close beside us; a coffin thrown up.

I see. Kat move and I crawl across. The coffin has hit the fourth man in our hole on his outstretched arm. He tries to tear off his gas-mask with the other hand. Kropp seizes him just in time, twists the hand sharply behind his back and holds it fast.

Kat and I proceed to free the wounded arm. The coffin lid is loose and bursts open, we are easily able to pull it off, we toss the corpse out, it slides down to the bottom of the shell-hole, then we try to loosen the under-part.

Fortunately the man swoons and Kropp is able to help us. We no longer have to be careful, but work away at the coffin gives with a sigh before the spade that we have dug in under it.

It has grown lighter. Kat takes a piece of the lid, places it under the shattered arm, and we wrap all our bandages round it. For the moment we can do no more.

Inside the gas-mask my head booms and roars—it is nigh bursting. My lungs are tight, they breathe always the same hot, used-up air; the veins on my temples are swollen. I feel I am suffocating.

A grey light filters through to the shell-hole. In the dirty twilight lies a leg torn clean off: the boot is quite whole, I take that all in at a glance. Now someone stands up a few yards distant. I polish the windows, in my excitement they are immediately dimmed again.

I wait some seconds—he has not collapsed—he looks around and makes a few paces—rattling in my throat I tear my mask off too and fall down, the air streams into me like cold water, my eyes are bursting, the wave sweeps over me and extinguishes me.

The shelling has ceased. I drag myself to the crater and tell the others. They take off their masks. We lift up the wounded man, one taking his splintered arm. And so stumble off hastily.

The graveyard is a mass of wreckage. Coffins and corpses lie strewn about. They have been killed once again; but each of them that was flung up saved one of us.

The hedge is destroyed, the rails of the light railway are torn up and rise stiffly in the air in great arches. Someone lies in front of us. We stop: Kropp goes on alone with the wounded man.

The man on the ground is a recruit. His hip is covered with blood; he is so exhausted that I feel for my water-bottle where I have run up. Kat restrains my hand and stoops over him.

"Where's it got you, comrade?" His eyes move. He is too weak to answer.

We cut off his trousers carefully. He groans. "Gently, gently, it is much better."

If he has been hit in the stomach he probably can't drink anything. There's no vomiting, that's a good sign. We lay the hit back. It is one mass of mincemeat and bone splinters. The joint has been hit. This lad won't walk any more.

The younger will hardly survive the carrying and at the most he will only last a few days. What has gone through so far is nothing to what he's in for till he dies. Now he is numb and feels nothing. In an hour he will become one screaming bundle of intolerable pain. Every day that he can live will be a howling torture. And to whom does it matter if he is hit again, comrade?" His eyes move again. We see now that the right arm is bleeding as well.

Kat spreads out two wads of dressing as wide as possible so that they will cover the wound. I look for something to bind loosely round it. We have nothing more, so I slit up the wounded man's trouser leg still further to use a lace to his underpants as a bandage. But he is wearing none. I now look at him closely. He is the fair-headed boy of a little while ago.

In the meantime Kat has taken a bandage from a dead man's pocket and we carefully bind the wound. I say to the youngster who looks at us fixedly: "We're going for a stretcher now."

Then he opens his mouth and whispers: "Stay here—"

"We'll be back again soon," says Kat. "We're only going to get a stretcher."

We don't know if he understands. He whispers like a child and plays at it. "Don't go away—"

Kat looks around and whispers: "Shouldn't we just take a revolver and put an end to it?"

Some Realizing in Mar

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Bulls were looking for a week-end rally in the stock market, but were given a severe shock yesterday by an impressive assortment of utilities and industries which hurried upward in violent fashion. A rush of short covering accounted for the rise, gains running from two to a maximum of 18 points in Laclede Gas.

Credit Outlook.

The easier tone in call money yesterday, which held at 10 cent, caused greater optimism regarding the credit outlook, though the return of the money and checks to the banks for collection next week is expected to keep money tight, and with growing commercial demands, bankers hold no hope of any substantial decline in money rates for some time. Wall Street, however, is expected to remain strong in increasing amounts.

The market opened irregularly with the upturn of $400,000,000 in stock exchange member borrowings during July causing considerable hesitancy. Bulls had looked for a sizeable reaction, after a sharp bidding up of high-priced stocks yesterday, but a violent swing soon set in in the utility field followed by buying in some rail and metal shares.

Some realization was encountered in the last half-hour, and prices closed somewhat below their levels of the day but generally above last night's close.

Operations remained largely progressive, although trading was moderately active, approximately $42,000 shares changing hands in the two-hour session.

There was practically nothing in the day's news to influence the market. The week-end market and industrial reviews remain cheerful, finding little change in the generally satisfactory condition.

Westinghouse a Leader.—Westinghouse Electric topped General Electric as a market leader, shooting up nearly 10 points to a record price above $22, closing near the top. International Telephone and American were important industrials reaching record levels. U. S. Steel selling within a fraction of its peak, and General Motors well supported.

Laclede Gas was a high flyer, the utilities shooting up 18 points to another new peak, but losing but 5 points of its gain in final deals. Brooklyn Union mounted nearly 12 points to a top, and closed with a net gain of $2. Consolidated Gas, People's Gas, Southern California Edison, General Public Service and Pacific Lighting all reached new tops gains of about 3 to 7 points, closed near the top.

Rails Well Bought.

Rails were well bought. D. Ware & Hudson, Union Pacific, New York Central, mounting 2 points or so. In the metals, International Silver soared 9 points to a new peak, and International Nickel mounted 4. American Metals was also well bought. American Auto, which dropped 4 points yesterday, rallied 10 today and closed up 8, net.

Radio was a soft spot, slipping 2 points on profit taking. American Telephone and American & Foreign Power lost about 1 point each. Case Threshing, a relative issue, fell back 5 points yesterday, rallied 10 today and closed up 8, net.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling cables held steady at $4.45 1/4, while marks were 1 and francs sagged slightly.

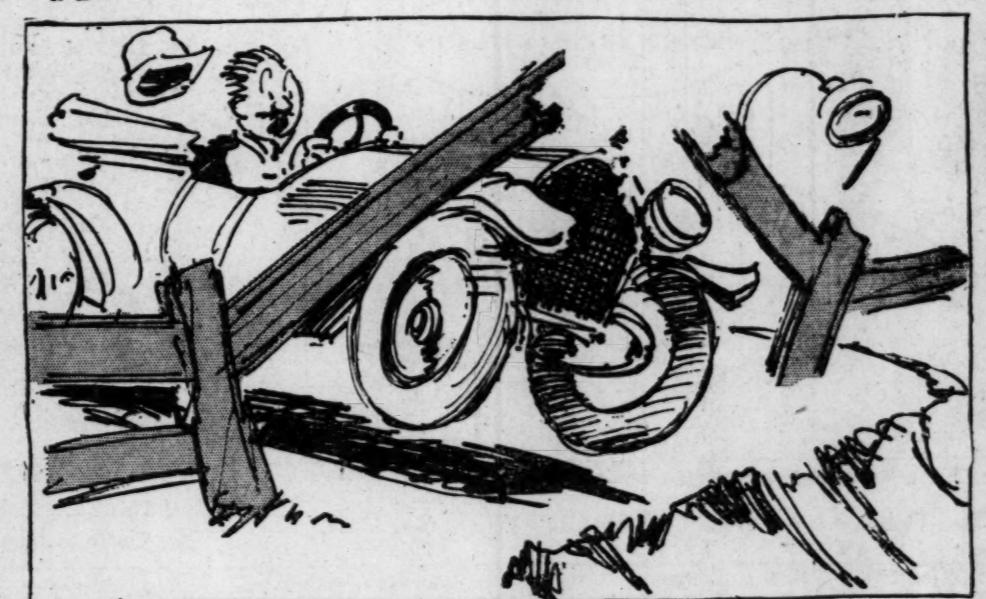

Grains were under moderate pressure, wheat losing about a cent a bushel, corn sagging about 2 cents on reports of much-needed rains over part of the corn belt. Cotton, however, closed firm at advances.
